SIX SHIPS WITH 11,239 TROOPS SAIL FOR HOME

Washington, June 25.—Six troopships bringing 11,239 officers and men of the A. E. F. home from France sailed on June 22, the War Department announced this afternoon. They are: The Caserta, with 1,552 from Marseilles for New York; Von Steuben, with 2,927, from Brest, due at New York July 30; cruiser North Carolina, with 1,595, from Brest, due at New York July 3; the Pocahontas, with 2,912, from St. Nazaire, due at Newport News July 2; the Muscatine, with four casuals from St. Nazaire due at Charleston July 5, the Edward Luckenbach, with 2,240, from St. Nazaire, due at New York July 2.

"PEACE VALUELESS," ASSERTS VORWAERTS

London, June 25.—The Berlin Vorwaerts, in a leading editorial today, declares that the peace just agreed to is valid only so long as the power which dictated it exists, according to a Central News dispatch. "This peace," said the Vorwaerts, "is due to compulsion and is therefore valueless. The German people will never forget the injuries suffered in this peace. It is valid only so long as the power which dictated it exists."

FORBIDS FIREMEN TO DO WORK ON DAY OFF

Fire Commissioner John R. Murphy today issued an order forbidding firemen to work at "side lines" on their day off. He states that men who are out of employment should be given all available jobs, while firemen should be connected with their even position. Several cases of firemen doing other work on their day off have been called to the Commissioner's attention, it is said.

HOT SPELL ENDS TONIGHT, SAYS FORECASTER

Torrid Wave Likely to Be Dispelled by Cooling Showers, Weather Man Believes

PROSTRATION

PEABODY, CALEB, Lynn, traffic officer, overcome in Market square, Lynn. Removed to home on Lynfield street. Not serious.

Fellow-sweltereres, relief is in sight. We have it on the word of Forecaster Smith that the intense heat of the last thirty-six hours will end tonight, probably in cooling showers.

But in the meantime Boston faces several more hours at a temperature even higher than that of yesterday. The mercury started to aviate bright and early this morning, and up to 10 o'clock the temperature was 94 at the hottest part of the day. The record was duplicated in 1914.

The country in the interior, outside the East, is being swept by belated April showers which are doing much to relieve conditions.

Forecaster Smith considers the showers likely, and in any case this section will be relieved with cooling, variable winds toward night.

Truthful thermometers registered 77 Fahrenheit at 1 o'clock this morning, but the mercury had stopped to 71 by 5. At 6 the upward climb had begun, with the temperature at 74.

The hottest June 25 in the history of the Weather Bureau was in 1909, when the temperature was 94 at the hottest part of the day. The record was duplicated in 1914.

BOMB EXPLODED IN BROOKLYN FUR STORE

New York, June 25.—A bomb was exploded early today in the fur establishment of Bertram J. Goodman, in Johnson avenue, Brooklyn, tearing away the entrance and smashing the windows. Goodman told the police he recently had had trouble with workmen.

TO QUELL REDS WITH GUN FIRE

Boston Police Ready With Machine Guns for Threatened Radical Uprising

Today's developments in the threatened bomb outrages in Greater Boston by "Reds" were as follows:

1—Article that looked like a bomb tied with wire, found in boiler room of State Mutual Building, No. 16 Congress street, and turned over by police to State Chemist Walter L. Wedger for examination.

2—Middlesex County Courthouse, Cambridge, carefully guarded, including office of District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts.

3—Six hundred night policemen held in Boston police stations, ready with machine guns, for emergencies. Entire force of 1,700 officers ordered to hold themselves in readiness.

4—Expert machine gun operators kept on hand to man guns held in stations ready for instant use.

5—State House at Concord, N. H., being guarded against attack.

"We are ready and waiting," said Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley in discussing the threats of the "reds" to perpetrate further bomb outrages, originally set for July 4. "If the 'Reds' start anything," he added, "they will find the police of this city prepared to cope with any situation." This virile statement was backed up by Police Commissioner Edwin U. Curtis.

The supposed bomb found in the

SHOT FAILS TO HALT ALLEGED AUTO THIEF

Herbert D. White, twenty-one, of No. 448 Lexington avenue, New York, as alleged automobile thief, was arrested today in Somerville after a sensational chase in which a shot was fired by a pursuing policeman. White quickened his pace instead of stopping, and Lieutenant Kennedy, pursuing in an automobile, brought the machine to stop, jumped out and nabbed the fugitive.

Chief Kendall was notified that a stolen automobile had been stored by a young man at a garage on Walnut street. Lieutenants Damery and Kennedy were detailed to watch the garage for the return of the stranger. He called today.

Lieutenants Damery and Kennedy were in civilian clothes, but White became suspicious when he saw Damery sitting in the garage and bolted. Damery chased him several blocks through side streets and alleyways.

When White began increasing his lead, Damery fired once in the air. It was in Pearl street that Lieutenant Kennedy made the capture with the car. The chase caused excitement.

Bill Aimed at Auto Thieves Signed by Governor

Governor Coolidge has signed the bill aimed at automobile thieves who have done a flourishing business in and around Boston for several weeks and dealers receiving stolen cars.

Dealers or receivers of automobiles which they know to have been stolen face a fine of $500 or imprisonment for not more than one year or less than one year under the act. The same penalties are imposed for the theft of automobiles.

Miss Puffer Gives Up 'Honey' and Romance Comes to End

The part-colored romance of Miss Mabel Puffer, the Ayer elocutionist and society figure, and her negro choreman, "Honey" Hazzard, exploded today when Judge George F. Lawton appointed a temporary guardian over Miss Puffer in the Middlesex Probate Court at East Cambridge, after counsel had filed certificates of two physicians that Miss Puffer is an insane person.

George L. Wilson of Ayer, Miss Puffer's lawyer, who was named as the temporary guardian, said that Miss Puffer took from her ring finger last night at Ayer the engagement ring which Hazzard had given her, and that she had given up her colored sweetheart.

Miss Puffer wept with, hugged and kissed Mrs. Mary L. Goodwin of Swampscott, the one who had filed the temporary guardianship petition.

Mrs. Goodwin was asked, after the hearing, if Miss Puffer's joy, as it appeared, was because she had given up Hazzard. Mrs. Goodwin replied: "I guess that will cover it, all right."

Miss Puffer, dressed in blue, with a flower-trimmed hat, was accompanied from Ayer by Mrs. Sughrue, police matron at Ayer jail, in whose custody she has been, by Mrs. Goodwin and Attorney Wilson.

The petition filed by Mrs. Goodwin alleged that Miss Puffer was an insane person and that Mr. Wilson should be appointed temporary guardian. Counsel filed certificates of Dr. Frank S. Bulkeley of Ayer, medical examiner, and Dr. Herbert B. Priest of Ayer, that she was insane.

While Judge Lawton was talking with Mrs. Goodwin, Attorney Wilson and Attorney John D. Carney of Ayer, representing Miss Puffer's relatives, received a telephone call from William E. Lewis, attorney for "Honey" Hazzard. Judge Lawton left the bench and conversed for several minutes over the telephone. Then he returned and appointed Attorney Wilson temporary guardian with $5,000 bond.

Attorney Carney then filed a petition asking that George W. Blood of Fall River, nephew of Miss Puffer, be appointed permanent guardian. There may not be a hearing on this until Fall.

After Miss Puffer, who had been weeping and embracing Mrs. Goodwin, recovered her poise, the party left the court.

Mrs. Skeels, on Stand, Describes Death of Miss Gay, Her Patient

Lawrence, June 25.—Mrs. Bessie May (Skeels) Lundgren resumed the story of her life today, as she took the stand in her own defence in her trial on the charge of the murder of Miss Florence W. Gay of Andover.

White and drawn, her eyes wide ringed as if by a sleepless night, Mrs. Lundgren faced a courtroom that had been packed for hours.

The audience, mostly of women, crammed every inch of space and kept crowding into the bar enclosure.

Judge Webster Thayer arranged everything for the defendant's comfort. Judge Louis S. Cox was on the bench with him.

Attorney Daley resumed the examination.

Q—You said the plumbers were working in the house when Miss Gay was sick. How long had they been there? A—Three or four weeks.

Q—What were they doing? A—Tearing out a bathroom on the second floor and putting in a new one on the third floor.

Q—What happened the day before Miss Gay died? Tell it all. A—She had gone (as that Mrs. Chaffin left at 4 o'clock and she was somewhat better at 6:30 when I saw her. I told her I was going to get her something to eat.

Q—And so you went downstairs to prepare a chop for her? A—I did.

CALLED BY A PLUMBER.

Q—What happened? A—Mrs Luce came into the sinkroom without her hat and coat. I told her I was so tired it seemed as if I could not stand it any longer, and she said: "Surely

MORE PAY GIVEN ALL SOMERVILLE TEACHERS

The Somerville School Committee at a special session passed orders increasing the salaries of all school teachers. An aggregate of over $40,000 a year has been added to the city's school payroll. The salaries will be, for high school teachers from $1,250 to $2,700 a year. In the elementary schools salaries will range from $750 to $1,600. The superintendent of schools has had his salary increased from $3,750 to $4,200. The assistant superintendent is increased from $2,500 to $3,000. The vice principals of the four junior high schools are each increased $200.

HURRY TROOPS HOME IS STILL ARMY POLICY

Washington, June 25.—The signing of the peace treaty will have no effect upon the policy of the War Department with reference to the removal of American troops from France, General Peyton C. March, chief of staff, stated today. Ever since the signing of the armistice, General March explained, it has been the aim of the department to get the men back home as quickly as possible.

Late Cable Bulletins!

LONDON—A heavy fluctuating battle is progressing in the Shunga district, on the Archangel front, said a Reuter dispatch from Ken today. On Sunday the allies attacked and forced the Bolsheviks to fall back six miles.

PARIS—A German telegram, intercepted by the Polish command, reveals a plot to proclaim a new war in the east against the Poles, with the tacit consent of the present German government.

AMSTERDAM — Dr. Hirsch, premier of Prussia, has announced his resignation, and other members of the Prussian cabinet are likely to follow his move, says a Berlin dispatch.

PATIENCE OF ALLIES NEARLY EXHAUSTED

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN.
Correspondent of the International News Service.

Paris, June 25.—Unless the German government announces the personnel of a new peace delegation by this evening, the allied and associated governments will send a note to Chancellor and Premier Bauer to order in the sharpest terms, reminding him that their patience is exhausted.

In the meantime, Marshal Foch has been instructed to hold his troops in readiness.

The French newspaper La Liberte reported yesterday that Foreign Minister Mueller had been named to head the German delegation. This was denied at the French Foreign Office that no official information of the personnel of the delegation had been received.

Disorders Throughout Germany; Mobs Loot the Shops of Berlin

By International News Service.

Berlin, June 25.—Disorders have again broken out in Berlin, following acceptance of the peace treaty. Mobs are looting shops and other buildings in many parts of the city. One hundred looters had been arrested at midnight last night. There is a new strike almost hourly. The telephone and postal workers have quit work, handicapping the city's industries seriously. Delayed reports indicate that the strike disturbances are country wide.

Feelings of revenge and hatred of the allies are springing up alongside the chaos here. Orchestras in the Berlin cafes last night struck up the old war songs of the "Deutschland Uber Alles" type. The crowds sang the songs with wild enthusiasm. Everywhere people are earnestly discussing plans for Germany's revenge when the proper time comes.

War Minister Gustav Noske and Generals Reinhard and von Lutwitz have pledged their support to the government in the present crisis. Noske announced that he would take every possible measure to preserve order. The statements from the three military leaders, the government hopes, will at least temporarily allay any attempt by government troops to join the anti-peace agitations.

The conservatives are stirring up trouble by issuing manifestoes condemning the signing of a treaty that gives away German territory, reduces the size of her army and surrenders her fleet and colonies. They openly proclaim that a day of reckoning is coming.

'FEARED FOR LIFE, FIRED IN DARK'

Herman L. Barney, who, with John F. Dillon, is accused of the murder of Patrolman Charles E. Deininger, described to Judge Callahan and a jury in the Superior Court today how he shot the policeman in self-defence in the dark.

He said when he ripped the lock off the door of the Chelsea garage a form bolted out and that he was struck by something that seemed to him a bit of piping.

Seeing the form coming at him a second time and fearing greater bodily harm, Barney said he shot at the man, whose identity was unknown to him.

Here is Barney's verbatim testimony concerning the fatal shooting:

Will you tell us what happened? asked Attorney Jugalow, who conducted the direct examination. After describing a lengthy conversation with Dillon, Barney said:

Mr. Dillon went to the window. I proceeded toward the door. I think he (Dillon) said: The car was in the garage, but he wasn't sure, as it was pretty dark in there. I said to him: Give him your key, Chicky. He said I have no key. The door is already unlocked.

I took the lock off the door—that is, off the staple. As I took it off the door was pushed open forcibly and a form came through it.

Q—What sort of a form? A—I don't know. It appeared to me a large man.

Q—What happened then? A—As the form came through the door I put up my hands to fight and something hit me on the head and fell backward and down. I turned to get up. I was in an excavation and

3,700 TO STRIKE AGAINST SHOE MACHINE COMPANY

Thirty-seven hundred machinists in Beverly, Salem, Peabody, Danvers and Marblehead are preparing to strike next Saturday to force the United Shoe Machinery Company of Beverly to admit the closed shop system. Of this number 2,500 are employed by the company. The others are employed by many small shops.

A strike vote will be taken Friday night in North street rink, Salem, and union officials predict that the majority of the men will probably cast their ballots in favor of a walkout. Union officials believe the United Shoe Machinery Company will fight to retain an open shop in the plant.

PEACE TREATY A GUARANTEE OF WAR, SAYS BORAH

Washington, June 25.—"In my opinion the treaty of peace is a guarantee of war," declared Senator Borah in the Senate this afternoon.

"FALL RIVER WIDE OPEN," NEWPORT JITNEYS CRY

Newport, R. I., June 25.—Complaint is being heard about the multiplication of automobiles for hire. They have become so numerous that during the early evening hours from Thames street to City Hall the highway is practically monopolized by them. They motor up and down, with the operators crying out "Fall River, Town Wide Open."

ATLANTIC CITY BAN ON SOCKLESS BATHERS

Atlantic City, N. J., June 25.—Under new orders issued by Director Bolsert of the beach patrol, the police chased from the sands several bathing beauties who were enjoying a dip, minus their stockings. Bolsert gave orders that hereafter bathing suits must be higher, fore and aft, and every fair bather must wear hosiery.

my knees hurt me. My left shoulder and arm also hurt.

Q—What were you hit with? A—I don't know what it might have been, but it felt like a piece of piping. I turned to run. I started. I was in the hole, half on my knees. I turned to get on my feet. I saw the form coming again. I did not know who or what he was. I feared some bodily harm. I pulled my gun out of my pocket and fired in his direction."

When Clerk Benning called the name of "Herman L. Barney," the prisoner strode briskly to the witness stand and faced his attorney, Francis Juggins, confidently. Every question was answered promptly and in a firm voice, clearly audible to all persons in the courtroom.

He began with an account of his ear, life, his education and his business experience.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATE AT 16.

"I was born in Roxbury, Mass., July 28, 1895," he began. "My parents lived at No. 24 Thompson street. I do not recall my own father; he was seldom around home. I do not remember his passing away. I do remember my mother's marriage to Mr. Barney, whose name I took.

"I was graduated from the Dudley Grammar School at the age of twelve years. I then attended Mechanic Arts High School, from which I was graduated at sixteen. Subsequently I attended the Dorchester Evening High School, where I finished a four-year course in two years and received a diploma.

"Later I attended a business college and completed an eighteen months' course in eleven and one-half months. I was first employed after leaving school by Dame Stoddard Company, and later with the Swinehart Tire & Rubber Company. While I was working for the latter concern I attended the Dorchester Evening High School. I did some stenography as well as clerical work. I remained with the Swinehart company about a year, resigning to finish my education.

"I entered Burdett's Business College and completed a course there. After leaving Burdette I secured a position at the New England headquarters of Armour & Company. I remained there nearly a year, when I resigned and obtained a position with a Far Rockaway, N. Y., concern. I was there until February, 1917, since which time I have done no work."

SERVED IN REFORMATORY.

Q—Where were you during a portion of that time? A—I was incarcerated in the New York City Reformatory for petty larceny.

Q—How long were you in the reformatory? A—Slightly more than a year.

Q—Did you have several different positions in the reformatory? A—Yes, sir. I was a trusty, led the reformatory orchestra, and was in charge of the commissary. I also did considerable work for Superintendent Laues. There were no walls about the institution and I enjoyed considerable freedom. Among other things I acted as the superintendent's chauffeur and drove his children to and from school. I left the institution May 28, 1918.

At this point Barney related his unsuccessful attempts to enlist in the United States army air service and said that he finally went to the local board chairman of Arlington and asked that he be sent to camp ahead of his turn on the draft list.

Shortly after he went to Camp Devens, he said, he was taken to East Cambridge to answer to a charge of a criminal offence alleged to have been committed by him previously. He said that he defaulted and returned to Camp Devens. Again he was taken from camp to East Cambridge and indicted in the fall term, where he remained until January 29 of this year.

KNEW HURLEY SLIGHTLY.

From January 29 until February 13, the night Patrolman Deininger was killed, Barney said that he remained at his home in Arlington.

Q—Do you know Joseph F. Hurley? A—Yes, sir, slightly.

Q—How often before February 13 had you seen him? A—Two or three times.

Q—When did you last see him prior to February 13? A—The Monday or Saturday before.

Q—When previous to that? A—About two or three months before.

Q—What time did you see him on February 13? A—At 6 or 6:30 o'clock, in the Adams House.

Q—Where? A—In the Adams House.

Q—What were you doing in the Adams House? A—I was playing billiards.

Q—Do you know Mr. Dillon? A—Yes, sir.

Q—How long have you known Mr. Dillon? A—Since the World's Series of 1918.

Q—How often have you seen him since that time? A—About five times.

Q—Did you see Dillon at the Adams House on February 13. A—Yes, sir, about 6:45 o'clock that night.

Q—What were you doing? A—Hurley and I were playing billiards.

Q—Was there anyone else there whom you knew? A—Yes, there were several.

INVITED TO RIDE.

Q—State the conversation you had with Dillon on that occasion. A—He first spoke to Joe while I was playing; then, while it was Joe's shot, he would talk to me. He told me that he had just returned from Philadelphia. He also said that he had just bought. He said that he had placed the car in. He said that he had placed the car in a garage and that he had since heard that some one had stolen some cars from that garage. He said that he was afraid that some one would steal his car. I don't think there was any further discussion about the car at this time. We talked about his Philadelphia trip. He asked me if I wanted a ride and if I had anything to do. I replied that I had not, and Hurley also said that he had nothing on. Dillon made no mention, however, of where he was going or why he wanted us to ride.

"We left the Adams House and walked down Washington to Boylston to Tremont, across the Common and over Beacon Hill to Bowdoin square. In front of the Revere House we went to a taxicab, but found it occupied. We saw another cab across the street and walked over. The chauffeur was not there. I hit the horn and Mr. Colonna, who has already been here, came out. A general discussion followed as to the fare he would charge to take us to Chelsea.

SHOWS ROUTE BY CHART.

"I had never been to the garage before. Mr. Colonna agreed to take us there for $3.50. On the way out I sat between Dillon and Hurley on the back seat, Dillon on my left and Hurley on my right. Colonna sat on the front seat alone. We left Bowdoin square at about 7:45, I think.

Q—You rode until you finally arrived at the Chelsea garage? A—No, sir. We stopped at a house.

At this point Barney was questioned in detail regarding the route taken by the taxicab in going to Chelsea. To make the route clear to the jury Barney took a pointer and traced the course of the trip on a large map on the wall of the courtroom, near the jury box.

Q—Did you stop before you got to Washington avenue and Winthrop road? A—No, we had not stopped anywhere previously.

Q—Did you see anyone, man or woman, when the car stopped? A—Yes, a man, on the right hand side of the street, about sixty feet ahead of us.

Q—Where was he? A—He had stepped into a doorway.

Q—What happened after the car stopped? A—Dillon got out, then I got out, both on the left hand side of the car.

Q—Had there been any discussion on the way over between you, Dillon and Hurley as to the garage or its contents? A—No, sir.

Q—How far in front of you was Dillon when you had stepped from the car? A—About twelve or fifteen feet. We walked directly cross the street.

Q—At that time did you have any talk with Hurley? A—A few words, yes.

Q—Had there been any previous talk about a Jew? A—Yes, in the Adams House.

Q—Was there any such talk in the car? A—No, sir.

GOT GUN FROM HURLEY.

Q—Did Hurley give you anything at that time? A—Yes, a revolver.

Q—What did you do with it? A—I took it and followed Chick (Dillon), putting it in my pocket.

Q—How were you dressed at that time? A—I wore a fur coat, a civilian suit and a green felt hat.

Q—Did you finally catch up with Dillon? A—Yes, sir, about half way down the street, on the unaccepted street known as Woodlawn avenue and Winthrop road.

Q Did you have any conversation with Dillon? A—Yes, I asked him why he didn't take the car out of the garage if he was afraid somebody would steal it.

Q—What did he say? A—He said, "I can't take it. I haven't got the number plates. I gave them back to the man I bought the car from."

More detailed testimony of the shooting at the garage followed.

Q—How far away from the man who came upon you through the garage door were you when you fell? A—I was no more than six or seven feet.

Q—When you fell what was your relative position toward the man? A—He was on the bank between myself and the door.

Q—What was your condition after being hit? A—I went down on my knees. My left arm and hand were weak and I went down on them.

SAYS HE FIRED ONCE.

Q—What did you do then? A—I turned, tried to get up and run. I saw the man coming toward me. I reached in my coat pocket, pulled out the revolver and fired once.

At this point Attorney Juggins asked Barney a question to which Attorney Kinney objected. Mr. Kinney charged that Juggins was framing the answers of his defendant.

"No, he isn't," said Judge Callahan. "He is conducting the examination in a proper way."

Mr. Juggins asked Barney the position of his arm when he fired and whether or not it was extended and whether or not he pointed the revolver.

"My arm was not extended," said Barney. "It was near my side. I fired about as I pulled the gun out of my pocket. I ran and heard shots while I was going along.

Q—When you fired that shot, what did you intend to do? A—I wanted to get away. I did it to protect myself.

Q—Were you afraid?

This was objected to by Assistant District-Attorney Kinney and was not pressed.

Q—What did you mean by fear? A—I had the blow; it affected my head. I was frightened and excited. I don't know how to explain it.

Q—What did you do then. A—I fired to give me a chance to get a start and get away.

Q—Explain what you did? A—I put the gun in my pocket and ran to catch up with Dillon.

Q—What were the conditions at the garage as to light? A—It was dark. I didn't see the face of the man; I didn't see a uniform and did not know it was a policeman.

Q—Where did you catch up with Dillon? A—At about the next street away from Winthrop road. He was walking and I was running.

Q—When you

'ENGLAND HAS NO RIGHT IN IRELAND,' SAYS PRESIDENT DE VALERA

IRISH PRESIDENT EAGER FOR BOSTON MEETING SUNDAY

Eamon De Valera, acclaimed as President of the Irish Republic, is looking forward eagerly to greeting the Boston public at the mass meeting which is being arranged as a reception to him at Fenway Park next Sunday.

A dispatch today from New York said that President De Valera regarded Boston people as the salt of the Irish earth.

The Fenway Park gathering promises to be one of the largest and most enthusiastic ever held in this city. Irish-American organizations, which will march to the park, have engaged the services of nearly every band and fife and drum corps in the city to add the inspiration of music to the occasion.

There have been various theories concerning the manner in which President De Valera accomplished his mysterious journey from Ireland to the United States.

ARRIVED ON LAPLAND.

The Boston American is in a position today to state that he arrived at New York city on the Red Star liner Lapland, which docked there on June 11.

His subsequent movements are also known in detail to the American. But, beyond the brief outline already revealed, these details must, at President De Valera's request, remain secret for the present.

Today brought a development that played deeply upon the emotional mind of President De Valera's nature—a reunion with his mother, Mrs. Charles Wheelwright of Rochester, N. Y., whom he had not seen for twelve years. Mrs. Wheelwright left her Rochester home for Manhattan to see, after so many years, the son who has loomed forth as a figure of international importance.

What manner of man will Bostonians see at Fenway Park next Sunday?

Eamon De Valera seems as the reflection of a type, the living image and personality of leaders of the distant past. Wrap him in a toga and he might step right out of the pages of Roman history. His gaunt, serious face impresses one more and more as he talks. His smile is described as a mixture of sunlight, wisdom, careful thought and rare discretion.

In giving interviews he never loses sight of his chief subject. He starts and ends the shortest declaration between two conversational points. In the course of his talk he confines replies off at a tangent. But he quickly returns to the main line of thought.

FUND FOR "IRISH IRELAND."

He has flashes of humor. For example, he was asked how many British troopers there were in Ireland. He replied:

"Well, there might be standing room for a few more."

He expressed the thought in New York that President Wilson could yet save the League of Nations for the common people if he considers the league, as now drawn and understood, an international impossibility, he said:

"I know one branch of the American people who will not be fooled by it, and that is the people who think more than they talk and who see the effect of Irish affairs."

In regard to the proposed five million dollar loan for the Irish Republic, he said:

"This fund is for the use of any party that may need it when the new 'Irish Ireland' once again gets started in College Green.

"I understand it is not against the law to float a loan here. Once floated bonds here could be bought free of Spain.

"England will consider everything we do to free Ireland as an unfriendly act. But the big question is 'was America right when she went into the war?' She entered the war to destroy the old order of diplomacy, to make the world safe for democracy, to champion the rights of little nations and little races into the struggle, and the American people must not be slow to see it.

ENGLAND AN INVADER.

"Personally I do not bid the devil good morrow until I meet him. But what was that he was being heard upon—defending for the Irish people's demands. Working unofficially means secret diplomacy, which the President so much opposed.

"I say England has no right to Ireland and when I talk of the League of Nations I am applying the gold test to Ireland. Is might greater than right? The Irish question is the world test at the present time. I have put this question up straight to England and America and there can be no backsliding.

"The Irish question is an international question. But in this country there will doubtless be national and racial divisions in it. But we delegates are here because, purely, the question is an international one. As no Congress all I have seen is the vote of sixty to one for Ireland. I regard Irish rule in Ireland as illegal.

"At the time England was asking the United States to cooperate at a time when the English were supposed to have their backs to the wall, there were 100,000 troops in Ireland. I believe they were held there so as not to join with the peacemakers.

"We do not need troops in Ireland and we do not need the royal Irish Constabulary which costs Ireland so much as the Bulgarian army cost. I believe we could get on with one-tenth of the police. Ireland is the most crimeless country in the world.

"Of course there are arrests for political offenses. As I speak to you now I am preaching sedition. If I said what I am saying to the newspapermen in England I would be arrested for inciting to sedition. I must learn. But there is more money spent in Ireland on police force than education.

"There is no use in our representatives going to the English Parliament. As we have all said before we have no voice in the English Parliament. Carson says we have more votes per cent. than any other landed division. No, we are outvoted six to one in the Irish Parliament. So what is the use of being there?

"As far as organization goes the Irish opposed it. Do you expect the men to fight for the country that is and has for centuries been organizing them? No!

"If anything happened, which God forbid, there would be men galore to take my place. I am only an old fighter. We are all the same in the Irish independence movement. We are all the same, I say, and the result will be the same."

AID THROUGH PRESSURE.

Speaking of England in no uncertain terms as the usurper of the best that was in the Irish people, De Valera predicted that American opinion would be so molded that England must give cognizance. He said the only thing that England holds on as the right to govern Ireland is the Act of Union, passed in 1800 and by which the Irish people were deprived of their own Parliament by bribery, fraud and intimidation. As George Washington remarked of or wrote, Dr. De Valera added, "If Ireland were only 300 miles away from England we could settle the question very easily."

He went on:

"At present England is a robber. She has no right to Ireland. She is a burglar, and with a burglar we do not recognize kindness.

"This is not a question of England helping Ireland. Say this as a question where England is morally bound to help Ireland. What help England has given Ireland she had to give. The whole world is against England on the Irish question, is seeking expediency or offering justice. The only assurance I have of America is that the Irish people is American tradition and good faith."

Evil of Military Rule in Ireland Denounced by Catholic Bishops

By HUGH CURRAN.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Dublin, June 25.—Denunciation of the evil of the present system of military rule in Ireland was voiced today in a manifesto issued from the town of Maynooth, near here, by the Irish Catholic bishops.

Military rule, the bishops declared, should be ended at once. They also demanded that aggressive domination by the authorities cease once and for all.

At the same time they urged the Irish people not to overstep the laws of God, recalling the inspiring example set by the people of Belgium.

"Now is the time," said the manifesto, "to declare with emphasis that justice must be done in Ireland and to express our gratitude to America."

Irish Societies Plan for Parade Sunday in Honor of De Valera

President De Valera will arrive in Boston Saturday, according to word received by the Bench and Bar Committee of the Irish Victory Funday, it was announced today.

Detailed plans for the reception to be accorded President De Valera have not been fully completed. Preliminary arrangements, however, have reached a point where it is now certain that if President De Valera will give his consent hundreds of thousands of men belonging to the various Irish societies will escort him from the Fairfield estate to the destination in this city.

The Knights of St. Finbar have made plans to have 1100 members in line. If there is a parade they will march with the sweet of 14 bands. The Cardinal's Cadet Band, St. Mary's Fife and Drum Corps of Charlestown, under the direction of Rev. Father Donnelly; the Boyle O'Reilly Drum and Fife Corps, and the Irish Band of Lynn, under President Clancy will lead the members of the society.

The roster of organizations as arranged under the direction of President Thomas Hall Knight, of Sir Finbar, provides for the following:

Division 37, A. O. H., civic, 150 members; Division 1, A. O. H., militia, 150 members in uniform led by Chief Ranger Patrick Lawrence Club of the Yankee Division; Division 1, A. O. H., 200 members led by President Hall; Division 2, A. O. H., 200 military and civic branches, 200 members; Sarsfield Council, Friends of Irish Freedom, 250 members, commanded by Patrick Carey; Bunker Hill Branch, Irish Volunteers, 150 militia members, commanded by Chief Ranger Jeremiah Purcell; Lawrence Club of the Yankee Division; Division 1, A. O. H., 200 members led by President Hall; Division 2, A. O. H., 200 military and civic branches, 200 members; Sarsfield Council, Friends of Irish Freedom, 250 members, commanded by Patrick Carey; Bunker Hill Branch, Irish Volunteers, 150 militia members, commanded by Chief Ranger Jeremiah Purcell; Lawrence Club of Charlestown, 150 members; a delegation from Lynn with 150 members; and delegations of citizens from Somerville, Malden and Everett, numbering 500 members.

All of the organizations are to meet Sunday at 1 o'clock at Hibernia Hall, Union and Lawrence streets, Charlestown.

FORE RIVER WORKER DROWNS IN BATHING

Don Neilsen, seventeen years old, employed at the Fore River plant and living on Front street, Weymouth, was drowned off Webb's Beach, Weymouth, Fore River, while bathing. His body was recovered by Firemen and a pulmotor was used, too late to revive the youth.

SPECIAL NOTICE

'ALIMONY QUEEN' FRIENDLY TO FORMER HUSBAND

Mrs. Lyman B. Kendall, formerly Betty Lee, stage favorite and singer.

Bar Harbor, Me., June 25.—Lyman B. Kendall, the "Alimony King," enters his new marriage venture with Betty Lee of Virginia, carrying with him the "blessing and godspeed of the first Mrs. Kendall, upon whom he showered fifty worth a king's ransom when they dissolved their life partnership.

The former Mrs. Kendall, who was Nellie Bullentine of Idaho, learned of the marriage of her ex-husband and the singer who was featured at the Bar Harbor resort, which was the scene of much of Kendall's lavish dating $4,500,00 given her at parting. She was surprised and obviously saddened by the news, but expressed the friendliest feeling for the Wall street magnate and his bride.

GIVEN BIGGEST ALIMONY.

The Kendalls were divorced last May, and Mrs. Kendall was voluntarily given properties worth $1,000,000, $1,500,000 in cash and an income of $100,000 a year, the highest alimony ever paid.

Kendall was one of the millionaire and the stage favorite ends forever speculation regarding possible reconciliation between Mr. Kendall and his wife of twenty years, and a report that the attitude of the former wife know that she would have welcomed such a solution of their difficulties, immediately after she obtained a divorce on the grounds of incompatibility, though she let it be known that it was of her husband's request, and one was still in love with him.

And sentimentally inclined friends of the Kendalls took this as a new sign of a happy ending of this unique divorce case, in which the life partners agreed with such mutual good will to disagree and to go their separate ways.

SURPRISED AT CHOICE.

But if this thought was uppermost in the mind of the wife who was given a fortune in place of a husband, it was not apparent that she was not allowed to creep into her consciousness. Her choice of Lyman B. Miss Lee was chosen by her former husband, as she had not known they were acquainted, and it is rather suspected that a dashing Atlanta widow is to be her successor.

His second venture will be made with a young and handsome woman who headed being a stage favorite in New York is a member of an old Virginia family, and possessed of the traditional charm of the Southern belle. Her home is not far from the Virginia estate of the "Alimony King," and it is believed they met at some of the informal functions popular in the Old Dominion.

FIND MISSING SOLDIER IN HIS SISTER'S HOME

Private Alfred E. Rice, charged with desertion from the U. S. Army, was found at Springfield, Vt., visiting his sister and brought to Boston. After being honorably discharged from the army he re-enlisted the next day, March 29, and then went on a thirty days' furlough, but never reported. He was found by one of the intelligence officers of army headquarters in Vermont.

MAYOR ACTS TO STOP PHONE STRIKE

General Walkout Planned as Aid to Western Electric Workers

In an effort to avoid a general strike of telephone workers in Boston and elsewhere Mayor Peters has been appealed to by a committee representing the New England Joint Council of Telephone Workers. Unless by noon today a strike of the Western Electric Company in Boston.

The Mayor was told that a simple, frantic strike had been planned if the demands were not granted. And that it would be as extensive as that of last April, if not more so.

Upon learning of the situation Mayor Peters promised to at once communicate with President Rolfe of New York, who controls the Western Electric Company, and request him to take such action to prevent a tie-up as might be necessary.

NINETY-TWO GRADUATE FROM HOLY CROSS

Worcester, June 25.—Ninety-two members of the 1919 class of Holy Cross College received their diplomas today. It was the third largest class in the history of the college. Archbishop Delaney attended the diplomas and spoke of the duty of college men to turn out real men. Thomas E. Murphy, S. J., of Brooklyn, addressed the students also.

There was a short memorial for alumni who had died during the year. Fred B. Darney of Milford, president of the class, gave the address of welcome. James H. Nestor of Fall River spoke on "The Right of the Poor to Temporal Power." Henry J. Lee of Pawtucket was salutatorian, and James E. O'Donnell of Northampton, valedictorian.

BRITISH HUSBAND SOUGHT FOR PRINCESS MARY

London, June 25.—Princess Mary has been unofficially affianced to someone ever since her eighteenth birthday, as soon as she became of the Man About Town" in the Evening News, Gossips on the Continent have assigned her in turn to a Spanish prince, the crown prince of Serbia and the Crown Prince of Rumania.

It is not generally remembered in London though it is never forgotten elsewhere, that she is the greatest catch in Europe. It is, I believe, the wish of the King and Queen that the future consort should be a Britisher. I have heard more than one name suggested, but generally speaking, it depends without foundation.

An effort is being made to dismiss the "Bolo" report as a canard. But if it is not connected with the case of Bolo Pasha, the report will be promptly dispensed with.

DR. BRINDISI HONORED ON EVE OF SAILING ABROAD

K. of C. Grateful for Aid in Getting Jobs for Soldiers

Editor American:

I desire to convey to you in behalf of the Knights of Columbus Committee on War Activities its appreciation of the splendid support your publication is lending in the campaign to secure positions for former soldiers, sailors and marines.

The business men of Boston are answering nobly the call for jobs for boys who on the big job "made good." The support of the Boston American and the very generous use of its news columns has been a source of great help.

Again thanking you I am,

Cordially yours,

DREW COLLINS

Director General Reconstruction and Employment Service.

MEMORIAL ORCHARDS TO BE PLANTED IN FRANCE

Mrs. James H. Montgomery of the New England division of the American Committee for Devastated France, has received a letter from the New York Bird and Tree Club acknowledging receipt of a contribution of $1,000 to plant trees for France. The letter in part reads:

"The money for these trees has been secured by the efforts of the Bureau of Agricultural Reconstruction with the request that they be planted in memorial orchards, especially also that we be notified when and where we will take great pleasure in notifying you. In the case of other memorial trees, the name of the individual designated, that the orchard is from such and such a donor, and the number of trees in the orchard of the way who has finished the good fight. We have also on hand a beautiful vase list of contributors to this local authority, with the request that a fine gold tablet be placed on the ship, and that the orchard be designated as from the New England Division of the American Committee for Devastated France."

SUSPEND COCCHI TRIAL TO EXAMINE EVIDENCE

Bologna, Italy, June 25.—Trial was suspended here today in the case of Augusto Cocchi, charged with murder of seventeen-year-old Ruth Cruger in New York two years ago. The presiding justice ordered the suspension after Cocchi had made an impassioned plea of innocence and charged that it was his wife who murdered the girl in his bicycle shop. Cocchi, who previously had confessed to killing the girl, said that he had confessed in order to save his wife and child. In order to study the conflicting evidence the court ordered the trial halted.

MEDICINE AND DRUG MEN WAR ON 'DRY' LAW

Senate Committee Offers Public Last Chance to Make Protest

By International News Service.

Washington, June 25.—Final opportunity was given today for the opponents of the Volstead enforcement bill, introduced in the House by Representative Andrew J. Volstead, of Minnesota, to appear before the Senate judiciary committee and present their views.

The sub-committee of the Senate judiciary committee held an open public hearings today, one of the most important legislative meetings of the session, expected the committee would complete the consideration of the measure before the end of the week. He said, however, that he did not expect the legislation to be passed before the middle of next week, when the committee will report it to the Senate. Several modifications of the present medicine and drug measures appeared before the committee today and it was said by members that it has been their prohibition should be extended to their products.

Prohibition enforcement measures as they now stand would so regulate the prescription of medicine that it would be impossible for them to be used as intoxicants, drug interests declared that the passage of the Senate bill would make it impossible for any doctor to practice medicine in the District of Columbia, which prohibition has been in effect, without a license from the commissioner of health, which would be granted only to those physicians who had been graduated from the medical profession to be necessities.

PLAYWRIGHTS MEN HEARD.

Representatives of three musicians' organizations appeared and were heard by the committee during the session today. They expressed a fear that their business would come under the ban of prohibition and declared that the Eighteenth amendment should not be allowed to override the provisions of the Constitution which guarantee the right of assembly. They declared that the people will endeavor to override the prohibition and nullify the Eighteenth amendment by refusing to permit the enforcement of the prohibition enforcement law.

The House Judiciary Committee rejected the amendments to the draft of the enforcement bill today and Chairman Volstead said that he would report it to the House with notice that he will call up the amendments within twenty days from the time it is reported. He will not say when he intends to call the bill up for consideration, saying merely that he will not delay it unnecessarily.

Bonuses continued today that Democratic Senators intend to make the war-time prohibition by a proclamation declaring that demobilization is at an end. Senator Sheppard, Democrat, of Texas, and Representative Randall of Texas, Democrat, have introduced bills to that effect and declare that they will endeavor to override the proclamation and reinstate wartime prohibition by a proclamation declaring that demobilization is at an end. Senator Sheppard, Democrat, of Texas, and Representative Randall of Texas, Democrat, have introduced bills to that effect and declare that they will endeavor to override the proclamation and reinstate wartime prohibition by a proclamation declaring that demobilization is at an end.

Representative Volstead, author of the bill bearing his name, which prohibits the manufacture of beverages containing more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol made a brief statement for the committee today. He declared that the bill was framed for the purpose of preventing the manufacture of goods dealing in drug cocktails and other like preparations. He declared that this law so that date, the day of her husband's death, and that when she went to the bank to receive the money she found that it was to be paid in currency instead of gold.

ELEVATED FARE RAISE TAKEN UP TOMORROW

The postponed meeting of the trustees of the Boston Elevated Railroad Company, at which the proposed increase in fares on the elevated lines would probably be considered, among other things, the matter of increased fare on the Revere beach line, which was postponed from last week, will be held tomorrow.

Whether the increases are soon in New York, as the meeting before the Public Service Commission of the First District today to consider a request for increases in fares on the surface, elevated and subway lines of the company was postponed to July 7.

GALLI-CURCI DIVORCE SUIT OFF UNTIL FALL

Chicago, June 25.—Trial of the divorce suit brought by Homer Samuels against Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci was set aside until Fall.

Attorneys of these New York musicians met witnesses in Mme. Galli-Curci's home here today, but by the time it assembled Mme. Galli-Curci's counsel announced that the illness of the New Yorkers according to the physicians' certificates, would not allow them to appear in court. Mme. Galli-Curci will thus be permitted her friends to attend the opera season, and the case will not be pressed for proceedings.

GOVERNMENT TO RETAIN OFFICE IN CHAUNCY ST.

The government has been forced to retain the office in Chauncy street occupied by the Northeastern Department of Naval Militia, which was to have been given up, it was known at headquarters today.

Naval officials today indicated there is little doubt in the rumor recently heard among army men that an early vacation of the Chauncy street office by naval departments of the army bringing the entire naval militia force in the Northeastern department together, with those in New York city.

MISS REGER, WAR NURSE, WEDS H. D. BURGOYNE

Miss Elizabeth H. Reger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Reger of No. 61 Adams street, Milton, was married today to Harry H. Burgoyne of New York City. The ceremony was performed at noon in the Milton Church, Reddefale, Rev. D. H. Aldrich officiating. The bride is a member of the City Hospital Unit of War Nurses and was stationed at Fraser.

MAY KEEP PRIVATE STOCKS

In the present stage the bill links together wartime and constitutional amendment enforcement with severe penalties for violations. It provides for the appointment of a commissioner of prohibition working with the Department of Justice and under the supervision of the Attorney General. All beverages containing more than half of 1 per cent alcohol are prohibited.

Under the House bill individuals may keep private stocks of liquors in their homes, stocks are stored in buildings occupied by them as residences and not for sale, and may be used by the individual owner in public.

Bill providing that no search warrants may be issued only by judges of courts of record issue for unlicensed liquor, and that no search warrant shall be issued and that beverage liquors may be seized only by the sale and in the act.

Beverage liquors beyond the amount allowed by law, whether manufactured or imported except by and for the private use of the owner, are subject to seizure and forfeiture in the United States. They may be exported or imported in interstate commerce.

ENDEAVOR TO AVERT STRIKE OF TAILORS

Efforts were made today to avert the threatened strike of garment workers in the shops of the twenty-three members of the Joint Council of Cloak and Suit Makers. Benjamin Kurlind, president of the Boston Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, said that as a result of a conference between committees representing the union and the manufacturers' union, the strike would probably affect only about forty independent manufacturers in the city. The strike may be called tomorrow. The union asks a 44-hour week, abolishment of the piece-work system and an increase in the wage scale.

KIDNAPER IS PAROLED AFTER 10 YEARS IN JAIL

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 25.—Helen Boyle left the Western Penitentiary here today under parole after serving a little more than ten years of a twenty-five-year sentence for complicity in the sensational kidnaping of Willie Whitla of Sharon, Pa., in 1909.

"I'll never come back again," she said. "My future life will be one of expiation." James Boyle, the woman's husband, is serving a life sentence for his part in the kidnaping.

POLICE READY IN NEW PLOT OF 'REDS'

Machine Guns Will Be Used if Radicals Start Trouble

State Mutual Building looked like an giant cushion crackers and was tied together with wire. It was picked up near the boilers by John McCarthy, engineer of the building. He notified his superiors and the article was given to the police. It was tied up in brown paper and on the outside contained a label of a Boston firm.

The Boston police officials were informed by secret service agents in Washington that the additional bomb outrages originally scheduled for July 4 might occur today. Every possible meeting place where radicals might gather was closely watched from early morning.

The declaration of Superintendent Crowley that the police are ready to handle in vigorous fashion any situation that may arise was backed up by Police Commissioner Curtis. There will be no conjunction about using machine guns if "Reds" start anything similar to the recent riots in Roxbury. They can expect cold lead in reply. Although no permits for parades have been requested by Boston organizations, it is expected that several groups of radicals will attempt to march through the streets.

600 ON EMERGENCY CALL.

The 600 policemen detailed today for emergency call received their orders at 7:45 a. m. when the entire force of 1,100 men appeared for roll-call by a general order. The men who remained behind in the station houses are "long day men" who got through work at 1 a. m. They go on regular duty again today at 5:45 p. m. The short-day men" who worked from 1 a. m. to 7:45 a. m. went home after roll-call, but were told to be ready for call at any time.

Extraordinary precautions were taken to protect the courthouse in Pemberton square from bombs. Guards were on duty around the building all night. All the deputy sheriffs and county officers reported early today and made a thorough search of the building.

GUARD STATE HOUSE.

Only the witnesses and those known to the police were admitted to the Barney trial court room. Every visitor to the building was closely scrutinized by the police. Orders were issued to arrest any suspicious looking person found in the vicinity of the building.

Similar precautions were adopted at the State House, although it was not expected that the radicals' demonstration would be directed toward the Capitol.

Shortly after daybreak Superintendent of Police Crowley and Sheriff Kelliher appeared at their offices where the atmosphere is one of tense expectation. Neither official would comment on the extraordinary vigilance in effect around the court-house other than to say that warnings had been received that an attempt might be made to blow up the building. On March 16, 1917, two men were killed by the explosion of a bomb in a lavatory outside the Supreme Court on the second floor of the building.

WATCH RADICALS CLOSELY.

As a result of the May Day riots in Roxbury and the Hayden outrage, organizations of radical and anarchistic leanings have been under the most vigilant espionage in Boston. All have been carefully listed and watched, and the police officials can place their hands at any moment on potential dynamiters.

Cobb and Goethals Given Honors by Dartmouth

Hanover, N. H., June 25.—Irvin S. Cobb, author, and George Washington Goethals, who engineered the digging of the Panama canal, were among the notables awarded honorary degrees by Dartmouth College today.

The degrees awarded were as follows: John Henry Bartlett, '94, Governor of New Hampshire, master of arts; George Levi Kibbie, Manchester, editor, master of arts; William Palmer Emily, School of Middletown, Conn., doctor of divinity; Raymond Pearl, ex-professor of biology at Johns Hopkins University, doctor of science; Irvin Shipwessury Cobb, doctor of letters, and George Washington Goethals, doctor of laws.

NOTED THEATRE USHER DIES, AGED 80

Plans for Funeral of "Gene" Foster Not Yet Completed

"Gene" Foster, dean of theatre ushers, who for many years seated patrons at the Boston Theatre and the old Boston Baseball grounds, is dead at the age of eighty years. Funeral arrangements have not as yet been completed. Recently he has been an inmate of the Soldiers' Home, Chelsea.

For more than fifty years he was connected with the old Boston Theatre, having served there since 1866 and it is estimated that during his career he seated there and at other places more than 5,000,000 persons, including celebrities of former generation members of royal families and a king and queen. He probably knew more real acquaintance than any other man.

He was the chief usher at the first peace jubilee in 1869, and at the second in 1871. For sixteen years also he served at the old Boston baseball grounds, and for a number of years seated people at the Beacon and the trotting parks and at the Brighton tracks. He also was in charge of the grandstand when the Soldiers' monument was dedicated on Boston Common.

During his career Mr. Foster met some of the most prominent persons in the world.

"There are few persons, if any, who have witnessed a wider variety or a greater number of plays than he, and he had a personal acquaintance with most of the geniuses of high dramatic art and the grandees of opera, who graced the boards of the old-time playhouse. He also was familiar with the personal history of every actor of prominence that appeared there, and he was a veritable encyclopaedia as to the stage and stage-folk.

During the Civil War he served for three years as a member of Company D, 12th Massachusetts Regiment.

"$10,000,000 BABY BROWN" SPENDS SUMMER IN JAPAN

Newport, R. I., June 25.—Mrs. John Nicholas Brown and her son, John Nicholas Brown, the Harvard freshman, known the world over as the "$10,000,000 "Baby Brown," left Newport today for Vancouver, B. C. They will remain in the Canadian Rockies until July 10, at which time they will be joined by Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. McCagg. The party will sail for Tokio, Japan, and will be absent till September, when young Brown must return to Harvard.

BOY KILLED RIDING ON A FREIGHT TRAIN

While stealing a ride on a freight train, according to the police, sixteen-year-old Richard Haggerty of No. 218 Dartmouth street, was instantly killed early today when he was crushed between an iron girder and a moving train in the Brighton yard of Boston & Albany Railroad. His body was removed to North Grove street morgue. Four companions were with him at the time.

SOMERVILLE WOMAN IS SEEKING LOST HUSBAND

Mrs. Cecilia Ward of No. 69 Gilman street, Somerville, has asked Chief of Police Kendall to find her husband, Peter J. Ward, who has been missing since June 10. Ward is described as 47 years old, 5 feet, 8 inches, 160 pounds, light complexion, blue eyes, smooth face and slightly bald. There are two children.

Big Dolls Used to Hide Whiskey of Maine Smugglers

Portland, Me., June 25.—Evaders of the bone dry law have adopted a new device with which to smuggle liquor into this State. Huge dolls, such as are given as prizes at country fairs and shore resorts and camouflaged to represent sleeping infants, have been pressed into service.

Two of them, which it is estimated will hold twenty small bottles of whiskey each, were brought to this city by two men, one attired as a woman and the other posing as the "husband," and not long after their arrival the liquor was being sold to men on the streets.

ABOARD THE BOSTON FLOATING HOSPITAL

Not every "kiddie" has a smiling doctor and an attentive nurse to examine him daily. But this little chap does, on the Boston Floating Hospital.

He is little Tony of the Crowded Places.

About one year ago his first small wail went up from the teeming tenement of our Boston, where such children as he see the light, and fight for their lives, against milk none too good, and air none too fresh, and sanitation none too sanitary.

But today, for the second Summer of his young life, he embarked on a great adventure. For on the Boston Floating Hospital he sailed down the harbor in state, with physician and nurse and kindly mother to pay loving attention to his little baby helplessness. Now, in his own, babyish way, young Tony looks out of dark eyes, philosophizing. And these are a little of his thoughts.

SOME TALK; OTHERS DIE.

"Good morning," gurgles the little fellow, "verily, 'tis a warm morning, but you never raind the heat here, on my floating hospital. Well, life is a queer proposition, so far as I have sampled it. Yo see, there's my home. Now all your wise city politicians talk about making my home sanitary, so babies like me can live, but they talk so long—so very long.

"And while they talk and send inspectors and talk some more and then report to committees and the like—babies such as I, Tony of the Crowded Places, die—waiting. Yes—we do; for we are not strong enough to wait so long. For very little may snuff out our small lives, while people dally. My mother knows, I guess—just ask her. For she has lost other babies, like me, in years before. I came, because things were not right in the tenement where I live.

"That is why, oh visitor to this hospital of mine, my mother clutches me to her in such fervor of devotion, and carries me long ways, over hot city pavements to this hospital where the good doctors and nurses are waiting for me.

"It was only yesterday, when I lay awakened crying that my mother shook her head. 'Tomorrow, baby dear, tomorrow we go—out into the free air, past islands and green grass and big ships, where you will be cool, my baby. Tomorrow, in the morning, mother will take her boy—only wait until tomorrow.'

NOT A BAD LIFE.

"So, tomorrow has come and here I am, kicking in my shoes, with my legs bare. It's a great feeling, isn't it—when a fellow can kick up his legs all he wants—and them bare. Yes, I like this floating hospital. I'm glad my mother brought me. And every day, so my nurse and my mother say to me, I shall come here, after the hot night is done, and I will grow to be a strong baby, with the care that they give me here. And, bye and bye, when I grow to be a big man, I will be stronger and healthier, because my mother had a place to bring me out of the heat.

"Ouh—goo-goo-gum la la—it's not a bad life—a hospital life, after all, is it? Goo-goo-la'a—and when I am grown up a big man, why, maybe I'll be President, who can tell! And, anyway, I'll be a better citizen because, when I was a baby, they helped me along. In the hot months when life was a problem to live, for little men like me.

"Ah, yes—and now I have kicked up my bare legs quite enough for the present, thank you. I'll have my lunch, and then—I guess—I'll take a little nap."

Largest Bar in World Built in New York for a Night Only

By International News Service.

New York, June 25.—With six more days to go before the nation goes dry—unless President Wilson intervenes—carpenters began work today at the Madison Square Garden on the largest bar the world ever saw. The bar will extend all the way around the arena of the Garden and will be open just one night, the last night. An admittance fee of $2 "to keep out the rough-necks" will be charged, and theatrical performers will put on a show while the ticket-holders hook their elbows over a real bar for the last time.

MRS. PICKFORD ADDS PLEA FOR RECRUITS

"Mary's" Mother Tells Young Men on Common They Ought to Join American Army

"If I were a man, I'd join the army. It's the best place to learn discipline."

This was one of the sentiments set forth in the address of Mrs. Charlotte Pickford, mother of Mary Pickford, at the army recruiting allyr today in front of Liberty Cottage on Boston Common.

Mrs. Pickford told what our men had done over seas and how worthy they were to have someone take their place.

"You men ought not to be coaxed to join the army, but volunteer," she declared.

"Just think of what many of the women did over there. Many of them gafe their lives, others have returned glad that they were able to do something for their country.

HAVE ALL BILLS PAID.

"You can go at fair wages, learn a trade and have all your bills paid. Is that an inducement? Then, at the same time, you are serving your country in a capacity that is an honor."

Dr. David Wheeler, Y. M. C. A. worker, followed with another of his practical talks on what it means to enlist in the army of the United States.

"The man in the army with low wages with everything provided for him is better off in every way than the civilian who got higher wages, he claimed. "Thirty dollars a month goes much farther with a man in the army than twenty dollars a week with the civilian."

SINGERS GET BUSY.

The Leo Feist Singers were keeping the crowds interested in their songs while Chic Story was making the piano spring into new life by the magic touch of his fingers.

Francis Maguire made his vast audience look up when he sang "When You Look Into the Heart of a Rose." Then came Keefe Harris and Arthur Huskins in "Chong—In the Old Sweet Way." Both these are great favorites with the crowd.

Miss Isabel Arnold then was asked to give her rendering of "When You Look Into the Heart of Roses." She sang several songs which thrilled the crowds.

Colonel J. D. Carmody of the Air Service recruiting will leave tomorrow for Lynn, Lowell and Lawrence with twenty-eight men, twelve musicians in the band, six trucks and three trailers. They will be followed by the DeHavilland planes later on.

American Legion to Elect

A meeting of the Ward 18 Post of the American Legion will be held in Chadman square, Ward School Hall, on Friday evening, June 27. Many prominent speakers will be present, and will discuss the aims of the organization, and an election of officers will take place.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Nitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and busts, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel an excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are often due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as Nitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and can be had from most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, nitro-phosphate should produce a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, should soon disappear, dull eyes ought to brighten and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION: Although nitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its tendency to increase weight, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

A Season of Triumph for Cotton Dress Fabrics, Aided and Abetted by Silks

A year ago, when women were head over heels in war work, the prophets all said, "Yard goods are dead—women can't be bothered with anything but ready to wear." Anyone who believed that should visit our Wash Goods Section these days—we never before had so many women eager to buy cottons, and it's our opinion we never before had so many attractive patterns to offer.

Our assortment of Wash Goods is still intact because we planned ahead and placed orders six months ago for merchandise that is just arriving now.

Swiss Organdies, 45 inches wide, 1.25 and 1.50

Sheer and crisp—all the pastel shades—mais, orchid, shell pink, ciel blue, nile, rose, tan, flesh, many others.

Plain Voiles, 44 inches wide, 49c a yard.

A fine quality of voile and thirty different shades to choose from.

Printed Voiles in Scores of Different Colorings

40 and 44 inches wide.

49c, 59c, 69c, 79c, 1.00, 1.19 and 1.25

You can pay anywhere from 49c to 1.25 for printed voiles and you can get every color combination or design imaginable, it seems. We are showing hundreds of patterns, many of them exclusive to us, and many of them copied from the all-silk chiffons and Georgettes. There isn't any too much of any one pattern—most patterns cannot be re-ordered—so when you see a pattern you like, please get it at once.

Five Different Qualities in Gingham—About Fifty-Five Different Patterns

Neat hairline stripes, plain colors, broken checks, Roman stripes and the beautiful striping Plaids.

27 and 32 inches wide.

29c to 1.25 a yard

Beach Suitings That Look Like the Expensive Linens but Don't Wrinkle

Plain colors in a fine linen fabric that is very similar to Linen and will answer most linen purposes but does not mass or wrinkle like linen.

36 inches wide

50c and 59c a yard

And many other fine Wash Fabrics, including Chintz, Calico, Crepe, English Prints and Linens

SILKS

Flesh and White Wash Satins Lead Among Silks

An especially good quality of Wash Satin for both underwear and sports apparel is priced at 2.50

Novelty Georgettes Imported and Domestic

Daintiest patterns and color combinations—most of them light, cool, summery effects, 3.00 to 4.50

There are also some wonderful new Figured Sports Satins, many colors, very high lustre, 40-inch, at 4.50 a yard, and a good Navy Dress Satin, 36-inch, at 2.00 a yard.

And Speaking of Yard Goods

There are some peachy new designs in the popular old-fashioned chintz. This fabric is sold by us exclusively in Boston.

* * *

Time was when the bridesmaids at June weddings felt they had to wear Silk. Now they're just as likely to appear in the lovely crisp Organdies.

* * *

Have you bought any Gingham yet? All the patterns seem to be good looking this year, but there's one big green plaid that is certainly our ideal of the proper thing in Gingham.

* * *

Since "harmony" became the watchword in modish dressing, many women buying Silk for a skirt, say, get enough to cover the crown of a hat or make a bag, too. "Things to match" are very much de rigueur.

* * *

Figured Voiles this season pride themselves on being so soft and fine and so beautifully printed that they are often mistaken for silk.

* * *

Some of the flesh and white Wash Satin we sell is destined for underwear, but a great deal also goes into separate dress skirts.

* * *

Women who have always liked the Fabric of Foulard but not the patterns should see some of the new Figured Foulards. The designers are branching out, so to speak, and many handsome effects are now obtainable.

BROOKLINE GIRL BRIDE OF LIEUTENANT MORAN

Following a childhood friendship, which developed through the years into a stronger love, the wedding of Miss Katherine M Lacey, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Lacey of No. 114 Franklin street, Brookline, and Lieutenant Thomas J. Moran, a former member of Battery H, 101st Field Artillery, took place early today at St. Mary's Church of the Assumption, Brookline. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Bernard S. O'Kane, who celebrated the nuptial mass. Bride and groom are employed at the Brookline Town Hall, the bride being a clerk in the water department and the bridegroom in the building department.

Lieutenant Moran was one of the organizers of the battery, which is composed of Brookline and Newton boys. He is a past grand knight of the Brookline Council, K. of C., and a former president of the Brookline Catholic Club. The bride is a popular member of the younger social set of the town. After the wedding trip they will make their home in Brookline.

DANIEL S. DEEHAN DIES FROM INJURIES BY AUTO

Daniel F. Deehan of 667 East Fourth street, South Boston, who was run down by an automobile Monday in front of his home, died of his injuries today at the City Hospital. Following his death John Connolly and Michael Flaherty, alleged to have been in charge of the automobile which struck Deehan, were arraigned in South Boston Court and held each in $1000 for a hearing July 3.

BIG WINNIPEG STRIKE WILL END THURSDAY

Winnipeg, Man., June 25—Exactly six weeks from the date of its beginning, the Winnipeg general strike will come to an end. Leaders of the strike have ordered the men to return to work tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. The strike became effective at 11 o'clock on the morning of May 15. The decision to call off the strike was the result of an agreement between the strikers and officials of the provincial government whereby the government will appoint a commission to investigate into the strike and settle all disputes.

AGED PHYSICIAN TELLS OF NIGHT OF MURDER

Dr. Wilkins Subjected to Severe Grilling When He Resumed Stand in His Trial

By International News Service.

Mineola, L. I., June 25.—Dr. Walter Kane Wilkins was subjected to a severe grilling today when he resumed the stand in his trial for the alleged murder of his aged wife last February.

His actions on the night his wife's body was found in front of their home with the head beaten in with a blunt instrument were closely questioned.

The burglars, who Dr. Wilkins testified, killed his wife, were medium-sized men, he said. His own life, the physician swore, was saved only through the protection of his derby hat.

"It has been testified that you did not go to the hospital for nearly an hour and three-quarters after your wife was taken there," said the prosecutor. "What were you doing?"

"Well, I took the dogs for a run. They had not been out and I thought I would give them a little exercise," the aged physician answered.

"You were much concerned about the condition of the dogs?"

"Well, I thought it best to give them a little exercise," again was the reply.

DENIES KILLING WIFE.

Wilkins had broken down, crying with contorted features but dry eyes, as he recalled receiving the news of her death in the Long Branch Hospital. Lightly he had glided over the periods of his career into which District Attorney Weeks later dug deeply.

At the close of the direct testimony, he snapped this emphatic answer to his lawyer's final question:

"No, I did not!"

He added that everything he had said regarding the attack by burglars, the blow on the head, and the futile attempt to restore consciousness to the dying woman was true, though the details disagreed somewhat with his explanation before the trial.

PERSONAL QUESTIONS ANGER.

The prosecutor harried him with questions of minor import, apparently designed to shake his nonchalance.

The district attorney forced the admission that while the doctor said his first wife, Grace Mansfield, had divorced him for desertion, that extravagance and profligacy also were charged. The witness, however, branded the charges false. Then the prosecutor asked if she had written letters to a Florence Merrill. The physician was uncertain in replying.

Dr. Wilkins fought back as the cross-examination became personal. His general defense was that the present case was "framed" against him. Referring to the first divorce the prosecutor sneered:

"You began to be 'framed' at an early age, didn't you?"

Dr. Wilkins flushed and became almost apoplectic as he struggled for answer. An objection by his lawyer and a wrangle with the prosecutor saved him the necessity of replying. Mr. Weeks sought to show Mrs. Wilkins was slovenly and a negligent housekeeper.

DOCTOR PRAISES WIFE.

Dr. Wilkins answered the suggestion thus:

"She was a woman of great mental charm. Industrious, companionable and entertaining. Our relations were always affectionate. Our home was not always in perfect order, for we had no servant. But Mrs. Wilkins was painstakingly neat, except when working in the garden or cleaning house, as she was doing on the last day of her life. She was a member of three clubs, and all her associates will testify to her charm and attainments."

The physician's temper was weakening, but the main facts in his story stood unshaken.

DISCREDIT REPORT OF FOCH COMING TO U. S.

Washington, June 25.—Reports that Marshal Foch would sail on the George Washington and with President Wilson review an Independence Day parade in Washington were discredited in official circles here today. If the supreme commander of the allied military forces planned to visit America, officials believed, the fact would be definitely known here by this time. Doubt was expressed also that the President would be at home in time to review the Fourth of July parade.

U. S. A. OFFICER BORE SWORD OF HONOR

Colonel Longley Got Novel Distinction During Church Parade in English City

By WILLIAM MALABAR,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, June 10 (By Mail).—A very graceful compliment was paid to the United States in general and the American army in particular recently when the Mayor of Stratford-on-Avon invited Colonel F. F. Longley to carry the sword of honor in the annual parade to the Stratford Church. This is the first time in the history of the town that a citizen of a foreign nation has been asked to take such a leading part in this annual ceremony.

Over thirty American officers, who are residing at Stratford-on-Avon while taking instruction in various branches of learning, were also invited to take part in the parade, and they formed a guard of honor for the Mayor and Town Councillors.

Sir Sidney Lee, Chairman of the Trustees of Shakespeare's Birthplace, had invited several noted Americans to Stratford for a week-end visit, among the guests being John A. Stewart and Major and Mrs. L. L. Seaman, representing the Sulgrave Institution (American branch); Colonel Longley and representatives of the United States Navy. A. D. Flower, Mayor of Stratford, and Sir Frank Benson assisted in receiving the guests, and it was suggested that they should be invited to take part in the ceremonial parade to the church.

It was then that the Mayor requested Colonel Longley to carry the sword of honor—the municipal sword that is always carried on such occasions with the mace. The other American officers in the town were notified of the ceremony, and a guard of honor was quickly formed.

The Dean of Exeter preached the sermon, and he referred to the presence of the Americans, drawing attention to the fact that the war had brought together in closer bonds the two great English-speaking nations. All the municipal officers of the town were present in full regalia, and the quaint and unique sight was thoroughly enjoyed by the visitors and guests.

30 TEACHERS GRADUATE AT NORTH ADAMS

North Adams, June 25.—Thirty prospective school teachers were awarded diplomas by Principal Frank P. Murdock at the annual commencement exercises at the North Adams State Normal School. This is the smallest class to be graduated from the local normal school in the past fifteen years. The principal address was delivered by Louis C. Wright, D. D., of Springfield.

SLAYER OF BANK MEN QUICKLY CONVICTED

Hamby Cool When Condemned to Chair for Double Murder

New York, June 25.—In one of the swiftest murder trials on record, Gordon Fawcett Hamby, alias James Alleg, self-confessed slayer of two employes of the East Brooklyn Savings Bank in the hold-up last December, was convicted of murder in the first degree by a jury in the Brooklyn Supreme Court. The jury was out less than an hour. The trial lasted only two days.

Hamby was the coolest man in the courtroom when the verdict was given. He had offered no defense. He even requested his attorney not to make one. Smiling and debonair as if witnessing a spectacle being given for his entertainment, he asked permission from the court to address the jury after a verdict was returned. He made no attempt, however, to talk to them when the men condemned him to the electric chair.

After the verdict, Hamby was questioned by the clerk of the court as to his age, name and education. He said he was single and had an average education.

"What religion have you got?" he was asked.

"None."

"Did you ever receive religious instruction?"

"No."

Raise Teachers' Pay

Adams, June 25.—All teachers in the schools of Adams are to receive a salary increase of $200 beginning next September as a result of action by the local school committee. The action was voluntary.

Dare-devil Days in Olde Virginia

"On that same day another planter, returning alone from the inspection of some bottom lands down the river which he had but recently secured by barter from the Powhatans, and upon which he thought to plant tobacco, was ambushed by two renegades from another tribe."

WASHINGTON, HANOVER AND ELM STS.

"I LOVED HER," SAYS NURSE SKEELS OF HER ALLEGED VICTIM

you would not leave us now," and I said, "Oh, no, not until someone there could take my place."

Q—What happened next? A.—One of the plumbers called me. He was half-way down the stairs and he said, "Miss Gay is on the floor. Come quick."

Q—What did you do? A.—Ran upstairs as fast as I could.

Q—Who went with you? A.—No one.

Q—Did Mrs. Luce come up? A.—She came when I called her, a minute later.

Q—Where was Miss Gay? A.—She was sitting on the floor. I raised her up and she was stiff and cold and her chin was moving.

Q—What did you do? A.—I got some hot water bottles and flatirons and packed them around her. Dr. Abbott came in about ten minutes.

Q—Did you meet Mrs. Luce in the back hall, when you were coming downstairs with a cup in your hand? A.—Never.

Q—Did you see Miss Gay again after Dr. Abbott came? A.—I stayed with her when I could be away from Mrs. Gay, when Mrs. Luce was not there.

Q—Did you give her anything? A.—No, sir.

Q—Did he leave her anything? A.—He gave her a hypodermic.

Q—What time did Mrs. Luce arrive on the day preceding Miss Gay's death? A.—In the afternoon.

Q—Did you see her? A.—Oh, yes, a dozen times. I went back and forth to Miss Gay's room, just looking at her.

Q—Did Dr. Abbott call again that day, prior to her death? A.—He came again in the afternoon and that night about 10 o'clock.

Q—Who was there when he came? A.—Miss Winslow and I happened to be upstairs.

Q—Was Mrs. Luce there? A.—She wasn't in the house. I think she spent the night at Mrs. Ripley's.

PATIENT UNCONSCIOUS.

The frail nurse, in her pathetic voice, said that she went into the sick room again, early in the morning, and that the patient was then unconscious.

Q—Did you give her anything on that day? A.—Nothing at all, Mr. Daley.

Q—Did you see her at all on the day of her death after 8:30 in the morning? A.—Oh, yes, many times.

Q—Was Mrs. Luce present? A.—She was there all day.

Witness said she was not present when Mrs. Luce had a conversation with Miss Winslow regarding going out in the afternoon. "I did not know she was going out until she came and told me."

Q—What did she say? A.—She said she would rather stay in and lie down upstairs. I was getting Mrs. Gay up and Mrs. Luce said to her: "You can't get up, Rosamond, because she may be needed upstairs."

Q—What happened when Miss Winslow returned? A.—I was getting Mrs. Gay up to her chair and Mrs. Luce came running in and said: "Go upstairs. You're wanted. There's a change, and something is coming out of Miss Gay's mouth. Miss Winslow wants you."

Q—What did you find? A.—Miss Gay was lying, with her eyes fixed on the door, looking as if she knew me. I ran to her and raised her up and I saw that she was going.

DESCRIBES WOMAN'S DEATH.

Q—What did you do? A.—There was nothing to do. I raised her up because I loved her, not because I had to.

Q—What was coming out of her mouth? A.—The mucus we always expected. She lived five or six minutes.

Q—Did you and Miss Winslow prepare her for death? A.—We did nothing then but wash her face and hands.

Q—Did you find any jewelry there then? A.—We were looking for a piece of lace to put on Miss Gay's neck. I found something I thought would do and I went to try it. Miss Winslow called to me: "Mrs. Skeels, there's a lot of jewelry in this drawer." I said: "Don't touch it. Don't touch it. We must tell Mrs. Luce at once."

The witness said that Mrs. Luce and Charles W. Gay came up later and Mrs. Luce thanked her for telling her about it.

Q—Did you at any time prior to Miss Gay's illness have some talk with her regarding Fowler's solution. A.—Yes, once.

Q—Tell the court and jury what it was.

ATTORNEYS IN CONFERENCE.

Objections made by Attorney General Attell resulted in a conference between attorneys at the bench. The conference lasted nearly a half hour for Mr. Daley argued the importance of this testimony to the defence. His claim was that this evidence was secondary in importance only to the production of a witness, the doctor who actually prescribed the arsenical preparations for Miss Gay before Mrs. Skeels went into the Gay family to nurse.

The court sustained Mr. Daley, and after the conference he repeated the question. He asked the witness to tell the jury what Miss Gay said, after the wearing of the raincoat regarding Fowler's solution. A.—She examined the rash on my neck, and said what would help it in the beginning was Fowler's solution.

Q—Had you any previous knowledge of it? A.—Well, it recalled a circumstance to my mind.

Q—Did you know it was an arsenical preparation? A.—No.

Q—Where did she say it was? A.—She said, "I think you'll find some in the house now."

Q—And did you get some? A.—Yes. I couldn't remember, and I went back to make sure I had it right. I was doing a lot of errands for her, either in Lawrence or Andover.

Q—How much did you buy? A.—Ten cents' worth.

BOUGHT FOWLER'S SOLUTION.

Q—Did you have Fowler's solution in the Gay house? A.—If I did it was on a shelf I reserved for myself in the closet.

The witness said that officers took what she had in Bayonne, N. J., and that she did not know they were officers and they did not wear uniforms. She said Griffin told her he wanted to talk about bonds from the Gay house. She walked down to City Hall, as he called it, with him.

Q—Did he ask you anything about arsenic? A.—He asked me if I ever bought arsenic.

Q—Did he ask you anything else? A.—He asked me if I bought Fowler's solution. I said that I had that June and that I bought some more in Bayonne. He said: "Oh, you did." And I said: "Yes, I bought some at the Bijou drugstore."

Witness said that the name of the druggist was Ostroff.

Q—Did anyone ask you to remain in the Gay home after Miss Gay died? A.—Mrs. Luce did.

Q—Did you ever quarrel with Mrs. Luce? A.—I didn't, but she did.

Q—What about? A.—Well, I had to support my mother and sick brother, and they owed between $200 and $300 for services. I asked Mrs. Luce about it and told her I thought I'd have to ask Mr. Flagg for money. Mrs. Luce flared right up and said, "Mr. Flagg has no right to give you any money and you'll have to get it out of Mr. Gay's estate." I told her as far as Mr. Gay was concerned he didn't exist for me. Miss Florence hired me and always paid me.

Witness testified that she left the Gay household on the 6th or 7th of February, in response to a message from her brother, Mark Wilkins, to go to Bayonne, N. J., on account of her mother's illness.

MENTION OF LARCENY.

Q—When did your mother die? A.—On April 22.

Q—Did you receive a message? A.—From Mr. Lundgren.

Q—Was there any mention of larceny? A.—Yes, there was.

Q—And in consequence you returned. A.—Yes. My mother was buried on Wednesday and I came back one week from the following Sunday.

Q—Who met you? A.—Mr. Lundgren met me at the South station and we crossed over and Officer Griffin met me at the North station.

QUESTIONED AT LENGTH.

The defendant was questioned at length regarding several articles which the prosecution alleged were stolen from the Gay home in Andover. Questioned by Attorney Daley as to what was said by Mrs. Luce as to things that have appeared in court the defendant quoted herself as saying to Mrs. Luce, "If there is anything you want here, Mrs. Luce, you think Miss Gay should not have given me, you may take it and welcome."

"Yes, Luce said, 'I want to tell all.' I said: 'Well, take them. I should probably make a bonfire of them.'"

Questioned by Attorney Daley: "What about this cracker jar?"

Answered by defendant: "After Miss Gay had bronchial pneumonia, and returned from Salem Willows, she gave that to me."

Q—Did you tell that at the police station to Mrs. Luce. A.—I was asleep to say very little. They tried to railroad me, I guess.

During the examination the defendant asked: "May I say something in defence of the Attorney-General?" To this Mr. Daley replied: "No, the Attorney-General needs no defence."

Mrs. Skeels was question regarding business matters.

Q—What did Mr. Griffin say about insurance? A.—He said I had got Mr. Lundgren infatuated with me in order to get him insured for $50,000. I said: "Maybe that's true, but Mr. Lundgren has had eight years to get over it in."

Q—How much was your mother insured for? A.—For about $125 or $126, I think.

Q—Did you contribute in any way toward paying for her last illness and burial expenses? A.—My sister divided the expense up, and we all paid our share. It was about $22 each, I think.

1,000 FROM WORCESTER FOR AMERICAN LEGION

Worcester, June 25.—Enrollment in the Worcester post, American Legion, will begin in Worcester City Hall tomorrow.

Offices have been secured on the ground floor and a volunteer clerical force will assist the soldiers and sailors in registering. It is expected that about 1,000 local fighting men will affiliate with the Worcester post.

Lift Corns Off! Doesn't Hurt!

Don't let corns ache twice! Lift any corn or callus off with fingers—Here's magic!

Just ask at any drug store for a small bottle of freezone. Apply a few drops upon a tender, aching corn and instantly that old bothersome corn stops hurting, then shortly you can lift it out, root and all, with the fingers.

Just think! Not one bit of pain before applying freezone or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

Hard corns, soft corns, or corns between the toes, also hardened calluses on bottom of feet shrivel up and fall off without hurting a particle. Ladies! Keep freezone handy on your dresser. Wonderful!

PITTSFIELD LIQUOR MEN STILL SEEK LICENSE

Pittsfield, June 25.—Pittsfield liquor dealers are filing applications for liquor licenses to be effective after July 1. In expectation of a lifting of the ban, either on all liquors or on light wines and beer. Eight applications have been filed. Whatever happens there will be a dry spell in Pittsfield, for the licenses cannot be issued or renewed until July 5, the applications requiring ten days' advertisement.

GRAFTON FIREMEN WANT RAISE OF $13 A YEAR

Grafton, June 25.—The four companies of the Grafton fire department met in the engine house and voted to put an article in the town warrant asking for a raise in pay of $13 per year, or a total of $52 per year, starting back in February.

The firemen say the cost of clothing is so high and a man can't afford to fight a fire with a compensation of $12 per year, which will not buy more than one leg of the pair of trousers.

U. S. HUNTS FOR MISSING AYER SOLDIERS

Montana Man Charged with Larceny of Government Property

Camp Devens, Ayer, June 25.—Corporal Henry W. Flibbet, 102d Supply Company, 26th Division, of No. 168 Fourth street, Leominster, is being sought by his parents who have not heard from him since his organization arrived in this cantonment and was discharged.

The intelligence officers here have been unable to trace him. The War Department will be appealed to in an effort to discover his whereabouts.

Roy M. Winch of Montana, charged with the larceny of government property, was held in $500 by United States Commissioner Maloney.

Another soldier sought is Private Harold M. Leydon, C Company, 843 Engineers, missing since June 14. He left here for home that day and was to return the next day. All efforts to find him have proved futile and his relatives feel that he may be ill or injured. His home is at No. 5 Peterboro street, Boston.

Although there are approximately 385 officers and 4,000 men quartered in this cantonment today an official in charge of the demobilization group declared the number would be increased to 12,000 within the next few days.

He said that extra preparations are under way for the reception of these men who will be the forerunners of two divisions to arrive next month. There are also prospects of a cavalry division coming here about July 15.

As the result of an extensive investigation by detectives and agents of the Department of Justice involving a soldier, a special court martial was held here today. The nature of the evidence was not disclosed. The charge against the soldier is said to be of a serious nature.

All draftees and enlisted men are scheduled to be discharged from the service here by July 1. Among these are one hundred members of the provost guard who have been complaining that they were detained in the army against their will. Several of this number are chefs and have received offers from proprietors of Summer hotels within a few miles of Boston.

Major-General McCain has taken precautions to safeguard the lives of soldiers. Today he issued a command to all men to keep away from the parade ground while army airplanes are being operated.

Inspection, infantry drill, physical training, a rest period, a lecture on citizenship are features of the Reserve Officers Training School. The students are taking to army life like seasoned veterans. Every precaution is being taken by the officers in charge to guard the health of the young men. It is planned to have them in shape so that they may hold a battalion review Sunday afternoon for the benefit of visitors, many of whom are expected from all sections of the country.

A telegram from the War Department calls attention to the fact that men who have enlisted since April 1, 1917, now holding temporary warrants as non-commissioned officers in staff corps or departments here, and whom it is desirable to retain in the position held by them at the time of discharge, may be re-enlisted and have their temporary warrants continued in force until the termination of the present emergency.

WHEAT MEN AND BAKERS LICENSED AFTER JULY 15

New York, June 25.—President Wilson has signed a proclamation. It is announced by United States Wheat Director Julius H. Barnes, putting under license after July 15 "all persons, firms, corporations and associations engaged in carrying on the business of distributing wheat flour" and those who manufacture bread or bakery products from wheat flour.

NAME SHUGART NEW U. S. TIRE MANAGER

Veteran Expert Heads Firm After Twenty-three Years' Service

Among the most important of recent announcements is that just made by the United States Tire Company of the appointment of George S. Shugart as general sales manager, succeeding J. C. Weston, whose resignation becomes effective July 1.

The appointment of Mr. Shugart to this important post comes after twenty-three years of service in the company's ranks and almost on the anniversary of the date when he first entered the company's employ. A year ago he became general branch sales manager for the company, with headquarters at No. 1150 Broadway, New York, after twelve years in Chicago, where his activities as branch manager and Western sales manager had made him the best known tire man in the whole Middle West.

Thirteen years ago he went to Chicago as branch manager. After Morgan & Wright's amalgamation with the United States Tire Company he continued to advance, finally becoming western sales manager. His early entry into the tire business and his long stay in the middle west made his name and face familiar on every automobile row from Pittsburgh to the Rockies.

The duties of general branch sales manager formerly handled by Mr. Shugart will fall on the shoulders of Assistant Sales Manager C. J. Welch, who has until now been manager of the truck tire department. In addition, Mr. Welch will supervise sales of tires to car manufacturers.

Announcement has also been made of the appointment of C. E. Whidden, formerly assistant manager of the motor truck tire department, as manager of pneumatic motor truck tire sales. H. W. Knobne, of the sales promotion department, becomes assistant to the general sales manager.

AMERICAN BALANCED SIX IS POPULAR IN BOSTON

H. D. Dockray, president of the New England American Motors Corporation, is delighted with the reception of the American Balanced Six by the Boston and New England public. The new car displayed in the local salesrooms at No. 94 Massachusetts avenue and a stripped chassis is the object of much interest. While among the construction of the car and allows the prospective customer to see the car underneath all the paint and fixings.

The location of the factory of the American Motors Corporation at Plainfield, N. J., makes it possible for the local concern to have cars for immediate delivery at a time when this is a great asset.

The peculiar balance of the American balanced Six makes it a car that owners like to drive. The matter of balance has been the subject of much thought by all automotive engineers for years, and the builders of the American Six believe that they have reached the acme of perfection.

SAILOR GRABS WATCH, ECAPES AFTER CHASE

After snatching a gold watch from a civilian at the Quincy railroad station, a man in naval uniform led the owner of the timepiece and a group of citizens on an exciting chase for more than a mile, and escaped.

The victim of the robbery was waiting a train to Boston when the sailor asked him what time it was. When the man produced his watch the sailor grabbed it and fled. The owner started in pursuit and other persons waiting for the train joined in the chase. After the thief had eluded his pursuers the owner of the watch engaged an automobile and left for Boston without making his identity known to the police.

PHONE COMPROMISE IS MADE BY CONGRESS

Washington, June 25.—The telegraph and telephone systems will be restored to their private owners at the end of the month in which the President signs the bill and the existing telephone rates will be continued for four months after the government relinquishes control under an agreement reached by the Senate and House conferees.

The agreement was in the nature of a compromise, the Senate agreeing to the House's date for restoration in return for the House's concession of two months in the period of extension of telephone rates.

Twins Thrice in Three Years

Shamokin, Pa., June 25.—Mrs. Annie Cholick, twenty-four years old, has just given birth to a third set of twins in three years. The first set, born in 1916, were boys; in 1917 a boy and a girl arrived, and the last two are also future Presidents.

SOME BAD ROADS IN PLYMOUTH COUNTY

Motorists Have Long Denounced Wretched Highway Conditions in Avon and Randolph

Photographs do not adequately portray the conditions which exist on the main thoroughfare between Boston and the beautiful stretches of scenery on Cape Cod. This stretch of road is right on the Avon line. The motorist leaves a good piece of State highway and without any warning is precipitated from his seat unless he is fortunate enough to see it in time. He is bounced from one hole into another and so on for about a mile, when, with a sigh of relief he strikes another piece of real good road. This lasts for a few miles, and if the waiting constable, who frequents this stretch of road on Sundays and holidays, does not arrest you for speeding, you find another example of bad roads in the town of Randolph.

Motorists have hurled anathemas by the score at these conditions, but they have not been remedied. If you get over the roads without broken springs you certainly are lucky. Even if you try to cross the street to avoid a brother motorist who is trying to tack up the main street to avoid the holes, you are nearly capsized going over the car tracks. The street level has sunk so far below the tracks that the tie-rods show for a half a block at a time.

Whether the town officials are waiting for the State to build their streets or whether it is simply a case of "don't care" is hard to state, but one thing is certain, the town is standing in its own light and keeping the value of real estate much lower than necessary by allowing such conditions to exist.

MOTHER AND CHILDREN NEAR DEATH IN FIRE

Mrs. Lucy Long and her two children were aroused from sleep and rescued by Benjamin Miller, a neighbor, from the upper story of a two-story wooden building during a fire that burned four horses to death on the lower floor at No. 324 Shirley street, Winthrop, shortly after midnight. Eight wagons were destroyed in the stable of the building and the whole repair shop of Jacob Liberman on the stable floor was badly damaged. C. L. Bishop of Winthrop, owner of the building, was the owner of the horses and William and Sanders, a local butcher, the fourth. The rescue of one of Long's kittens by the firemen was a feature of the fire which caused a damage of about $1,500.

CHAPLAIN SHERRY TALKS TO ST. THOMAS MEMBERS

At the annual meeting of the members of St. Thomas' Catholic Association of Jamaica Plain, the Rev. James P. Sherry, curate at St. Thomas' church, and formerly attached chaplain to the 101st Regiment in France, twice recommended for the Distinguished Service Medal, gave a most interesting and eloquent protrayal of his experiences in the war zone. He paid high tribute to the bravery of the American soldiers, to the morale of the army and to the personal cleanliness and morality of the "boys."

PAGE TO SEE PRESIDENT, MAY THEN QUIT ITALY

Paris, June 25.—Thomas Nelson Page, United States ambassador to Italy, has arrived here for a conference with President Wilson. The ambassador is understood has not yet resigned, contrary to many reports but his return to Rome is said to depend upon the outcome of his talk with the President. Mr. Page is known to view the situation in Italy with considerable alarm.

ASK $476,000,000 TO COMPLETE SHIPBUILDING

Washington, June 25.—Officials of the Shipping Board appealed to the appropriation committee of the Senate for an appropriation of $476,000,000 to complete the shipbuilding program authorized by Congress.

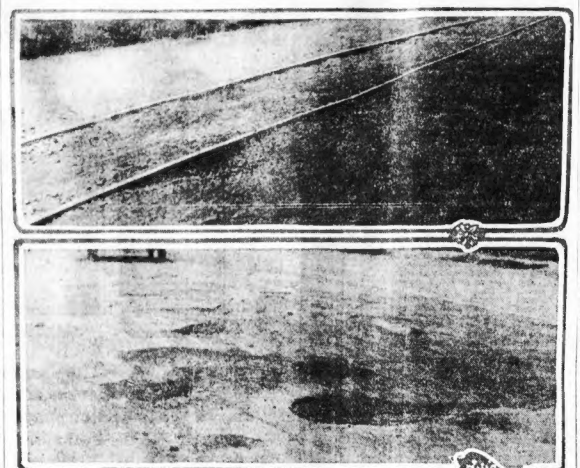
The House made an appropriation of $226,000,000 in the sundry civil bill. Chairman Hurley declared this amount would not be sufficient.

HOPKINTON MAN'S WILL PUT IN WIDOW'S HANDS

The will of Dennis J. Creedan of Hopkinton, who died April 15, has been allowed.

Mrs. Catherine A. Creedan of Hopkinton, widow of the deceased, has been appointed as executrix and has given a bond of $60,000. The estate is valued at $17,300.

ROADS WHERE AUTOISTS GET BAD JOLTS



The above illustrates the condition of the highway at Avon. Note the inviting holes that have been tempting springs to do their worst for many months. The trolley tracks at Randolph are almost a foot above the street level and one takes a big chance of breaking a steering rod or knuckle in attempting to cross the street.

Motorists are requested to send to the Automobile Editor of the American any information of bad roads in the vicinity of Boston and they will be investigated.

Columbia Motors Buys Site for New "C" Plant

As was announced some time ago, the Columbia Motors Company of Detroit, manufacturers of the Columbia Six, have outgrown their present factory facilities and plan on building a modern new plant.

Plans for the new plant finally came to a head this past week by the purchase of a site.

A large tract of land next to the Fisher Body Corporation airplane plant, at the corner of West Fort street and the Michigan Central Railroad, has been purchased.

A plant with upward of 180,000 square feet of floor space will be erected as soon as plans can be drawn.

It is expected that the new plant will give the company at least double the production which is now possible.

"There is one advantage," says Mr. J. G. Bayerline, president of the company, "in building a new plant now. We are able to combine all the good ideas which have been proven out in the scores of plants which have been built in and around Detroit during the past decade.

"There won't be a thing left out of our new plant which can make for efficiency or quality production."

Look for Vacation Auto Tour, in the American

Beginning Wednesday, July 2nd, the American will publish a two weeks' vacation automobile tour. This trip will take the motorists through Maine, via Portland and Bangor, through the beautiful St. Lawrence valley section and down the Lake George district and across the Berkshires. The maps and routes will be published in sections and by saving the issues the route will be complete.

FAMOUS HOTEL CLOCK FOR WORCESTER POLICE

Worcester, June 25.—Jere Regan, prominent hotel man, has given the Worcester police force a big mahogany clock, which for years ticked off the seconds in the old Bay State hotel.

The hostelry was closed about a week ago after having been open almost a century. In the olden days many a world figure set his watch by this same old mahogany clock.

BIGGEST OF AUTO YEARS, SAYS DORT MAN

Gleason Foresees Shortage of Cars and Advises Prospective Purchasers to Buy Early

Motorists who beat the season by buying their cars early are now reaping the benefits in having an automobile for the nice Spring weather. Those who want cars for Summer use should be guided by the experience of others, for the present indications are that the supply of cars will not equal the demand.

"This season is the biggest I have ever seen," says W. H. Gleason of the Utterback-Gleason Company, distributors for Dort motor cars. "While we have been able to give our customers deliveries within a reasonable time up to the present, the demand for cars is increasing every day and we are kept busy supplying them. And this is the situation all over the country.

"Production is somewhat limited, due to the fact that the war ended when it did and factories had to wait to return to a peace basis. Personally I believe that the end of the season is likely to see a shortage of cars, and if I were going to buy, I'd buy early."

ONE-TON CLYDESDALE IS NOW ON EXHIBITION

Fred C. Henderson of No. 949 Commonwealth avenue, the local Clydesdale dealer, is showing a new one-ton model on his salesroom floor. This is the model that has been the subject of much talk and its appearance in Boston has been awaited with interest.

"It is all that has been said of it," said Mr. Henderson in a recent interview, "and it fills the one spot that lieve that it will be one of our most was needed to make the Clydesdale line complete. Of course it has the famous Driver Under the Hood,' that little device that saves the owner many dollars throughout the season, and it has all the other Clydesdale features. It is in fact simply the big truck on a smaller scale and we be- popular models.

"The new one-ton model is the result of the records of thousands of Clydesdales. All these facts were used in determining the truck to be built. In this way it was possible to design a truck that would give maximum service to the owner."

DERF 360 SPARK POINT PLUGS

Another Wonderful Triumph for Derf Spark Plugs!

IN a dependability run, conducted by the Tower Motor Co., with an Overland car, Derf Spark Plugs again proved their superiority over any other plug. Seven days and seven nights the car was run, under the most unfavorable conditions, and not once did the motor miss fire! The run covered 3707 miles at an average gasoline consumption of 21.30 miles per gallon!

This absolutely proved our claim that the Derf saves 20% to 35% gasoline; that it is the most dependable plug made and that it lasts longest.

In fact, Mr. M. R. Coon, Mgr. of the Tower Motor Co., wrote us: "Derf Plugs are certainly all that is claimed for them—and then some!"

Can you beat that? There are hundreds of similar triumphs. You can't even approximate the Derf's record with any other plug.

Prove it yourself. What the Derf saves for others it will save for you. Get a set today and learn what it means to have the Derf give you more power at less cost! $6.20 for four, $9.30 for six.

STOMACH PUMP SAVES GIRL WHO TOOK POISON

North Adams, June 25.—After returning home to dinner from work in a local laundry, Miss Elizabeth Beebe of No. 74 Willow Dell, twenty-eight years, swallowed several mercury tablets [illegible] with suicidal intent. She was removed to the North Adams hospital, where the stomach pump was used and now she is said to be out of danger. Miss Beebe declined to give any reason for her act and, members of her family say they are at a loss to understand her queer action.

COPPER SHARES STRONG IN BOSTON

Local Trading Is Featured by the Advance of Red Metal Issues

The Boston market was firm at the opening and soon became active, with copper issues a feature. Utah Apex moved over 6 points to a new high point and, in some cases, was in demand. Among the more active were Butte & Superior, Calumet & Arizona, Calumet & Hecla, Copper Range and Utah Consolidated. Lake Copper, a strong issue during the first hour, declined 1 point on small offerings, but after opening at a point below its previous close showed fractional gain. United Fruit also more than recovered its loss. This was the case with United Shoe as well. Warren Brothers advanced on a profit-taking reaction. Arcadia sold higher on the curb.

Among other issues to show price improvement during the afternoon were Boston Consolidated Gas, Mexican Petroleum and Utah Consolidated. Trading in the New York curb market was resumed for the first time since the outbreak of the war, when the Exchange was closed in July, 1914.

JACK DEMPSEY — JAMES J. CORBETT — HUGH FULLERTON — DAMON RUNYON

DEMPSEY ON 24TH BIRTHDAY FEELS LIKE A CHAMPION

By JACK DEMPSEY.

(Copyrighted 1919 by the International News Syndicate

Toledo, O., June 25.—Yesterday was my birthday and, believe me, I enjoyed it. At the Overland Club, where I am training, the boys who are helping me and some friends I have in the city [illegible] made it very dear to me.

Early in the morning, after I had gone [illegible] gone into the [illegible] and suggested that we take [illegible] far down the State line way.

Returning I was met at the door by a bunch of [illegible] boys who had been [illegible] nearly every day since I got here. The little girls had a birthday cake with [illegible] dles in it, one for every year of my life. It made me feel good. These little girls [illegible] bet one is married. They help me [illegible] queer little way.

Twenty-four years old, am I not in it? At any rate I am [illegible] sorry a little [illegible] tell me I look [illegible] this world. If I were [illegible] to me I would be [illegible] lifetime no [illegible] cerned. BALL PARK AT CHARLESTOWN ATTACKED

K. of C. Nine Manager Says Sullivan Square Playground Is Disgrace

The condition of the playing field, locker accommodations and other facilities at the Sullivan Square playground are bitterly condemned in a letter sent to the American by William F. O'Hara, manager of the Bunker Hill K. of C. baseball nine. O'Hara's letter, which explains itself, follows:

"The condition of the Sullivan Square playground came in for considerable criticism on the part of the spectators who attended the baseball game between the Bunker Hill K. of C. team and the Quincy Athletics last Saturday afternoon.

"They are absolutely no facilities for the players as regards showers and lockers. Four lockers were installed recently, but they are inadequate for the needs of the men. The majority of the clothes have to be hung on the floor" and as a result, are very dirty when they are put on again.

"The playing field is so rough with bumps and holes of all sizes and shapes, and quite a few of the boys have been severely bruised by falling. The batting cage is a joke. If a player slides into a base he is liberally cut by the broken glass.

"Sullivan square does not in any way compare favorably with any playground in Greater Boston.

"We have four representatives and one member of the City Council, and it does seem rather strange that Charlestown cannot have at least one diamond on the Sullivan square playground that is fit to play a game of baseball on.

"I might add that there is no seating capacity for players or spectators either. Four sets of bars were sent over to be used and it was indeed laughable to see them. They were just about the sizes of a lady's handkerchief, as a player having an ordinary size foot could cover one of them just my placing his foot on it. Hooks were attached to the bottom of them, but there is nothing on the playground to hook them to.

"The custodian is in no way responsible for the condition of the place. He sure does his best with whatever small means he has. The dressing room is kept clean as far as possible and anyone knows that concrete cannot be kept very clean.

"We would suggest that three shower baths be attached to the water main running through the dressing hut. Four more lockers so that each team could have a large locker apiece, instead of having twenty or twenty-two men trying to hang their clothes on six hooks, suitable bags for bases; a crew of men to fix up the diamond, a steam roller rapid fill up holes; two players' benches and bleachers to seat at least 700 spectators; ropes to be placed around the field as a crowd of 3000 to 4000 people cannot be kept back by the players.

A Consensus of Opinion.

STICKING Willard into the same ring with Dempsey is like trying to raise cabbages and rabbits on the same farm. Jack will knock him for a row of Chinese pagodas. He has about as much chance as one apple in an orphan asylum.

BY the time that Jess powders Dempsey's nose with that Djer Kiss left a few times, Jack will be wishing that he was back home in a nice, safe tornado. The fight is as one-sided as the heels on a bow legged hobo's shoes.

PLACE a thousand-smacker bet on Willard's beak and watch it grow. The money, not the beak. Jess will flatten him like a wet sock in a wash wringer. Dempsey has no more business there than a guy with an appetite has in Childs.

JESS mixing it up with Dempsey is like a bear fighting bumble bees. When the bees go away the fight is over.

JESS will hang him over the ropes like the week's wash.

THEY buzz that Willard is a lobster, but remember that those birds are dangerous. When they're alive they have claws, and when they're dead they give you ptomaine poisoning.

IF Jess can play a golden harp he will get a chance to use his musical talent about the fifth round.

WILLARD will drive Dempsey's teeth so far back into his complexion that they will cut his hair.

DEMPSEY won't want to see a glove for ten years. He won't be able to see anything else for at least five.

WHEN DEMPSEY comes to in the second he will pipe a rainbow in the water bucket.

JACK will be cutting out paper dolls in the seventh. He will be in a forest of ring posts with a cuckoo chirping on every twig.

IT'S another Belgium. If Jack knew what was coming to him it would take more guys to get him into the ring than it will to carry him out.

BY the time that Dempsey asks what happened he will be wealthy from the interest on his share of the gate.

IT'S a push-over. Willard could smack a fifty-car freight train on the nose and knock four guys out of the caboose.

WHEN Willard starts swinging those danger semaphores Jack will think he's in an ocean of gloves with a punch on every wave.

DAN O'LEARY and Edward Peyton Weston are the only birds who can bet on Willard and reach home the same year.

BRAVES EMERGE FROM CELLAR AND GO BACK

Philadelphia, June 25.—Advocates of the abolishment of capital punishment have missed a good alternative that they might have advanced as punishment to be inflicted on those deserving of the maximum penalty. Just stop to consider for a few moments what an enormous decrease there would be in all kinds of crime if the perpetrators were sentenced to watch the Phillies and Braves gallop through a double-header every afternoon for the rest of their lives.

The series with Boston continued here in the form of a double-header that ended in an even split. The scores were 10 to 6, with the Braves winning the first, and 9 to 5, with the Phils gallivanting off with the second.

SOME GOOD PITCHING.

It was something like five hours of baseball. There was a lot of brilliant pitching to carry the monotone, and only forty-seven hits were registered. The shortage of hits in the games here is something terrible.

There was one little bit of excitement in the things up when assorted fandom departed from the left field bleachers and merrily thronged across the field to walk on the grandstand patrons. Only nine of them were sent to the hoosegow before the rest beat it back to the benches. Another row and all the 12,000 will close up the bleachers altogether leaving the fans a choice of fifty-five cent box seats or the sun tax or the privilege of spending their afternoons elsewhere. A few more games like yesterday's and they won't have to close the bleachers to keep the fans away. They'll have to supply taxies to get them there.

THIS is the anniversary of the crossing of the Potomac in 1863 by General Lee, with 80,000 men. Advancing northward, he was forced to fight on July 3 and 4 at Gettysburg, where he met a crushing defeat at the hands of General Meade. On the same day Grant took Vicksburg, and the Confederacy received its death blow.

The Cocoanut

OVER eighty distinct methods are in vogue for the utilization of the cocoanut. Every year about eight thousand million nuts are cultivated; of this quantity 50 per cent. are consumed in the East and elsewhere as food, 20 per cent. are transformed into oil, and only about 30 per cent. find their way to the markets.

COURT ORDERS CHENEY TO PAY CLAIMS

Supreme Bench Decrees $50,000 Must Be Paid Yearly to Creditors

Benjamin P. Cheney, husband of Julia Arthur, the actress, will have to pay out of the income he receives from the estate of his father, Benjamin Pierce Cheney, a sum not less than $50,000 a year until he satisfies claims to the amount of $107,000 and interest of $32,753.75 in claims held by Henry H. Woodward and Bates Warren of Washington by assignment made by creditors in Court was a bar.

This decision in favor of Woodward and Bates was handed down by the full bench of the Supreme Court. Cheney contested the suit on the ground that he had no assignable interest under the will of his father, and that bankruptcy proceedings taken in the United States Court was a bar.

The Supreme Court, in an opinion written by Judge Pierce, says that Cheney, under his father's will, had an assignable interest of $105,000 and also a valid assignable interest in the income from a trust estate, which he could sell or assign in payment of, or to secure the payment of any present or future maturing obligation.

Judge Pierce also says that the assignment to the plaintiffs was made more than four months before the commencement of bankruptcy proceedings and was good as against the trustee in bankruptcy.

At a hearing before Judge Crosby from whose decree exceptions were taken to the full court, it appeared in evidence that $100,000 which Cheney had borrowed from the Rhode Island Trust Company, and as indebtedness of $42,500 to the Shawmut National Bank, had both been paid by the trustees of the elder Cheney out of income due the younger Cheney.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN JUNE 25, 1919. BOSTON.

The American Congratulates the Labor Congress Upon Its Wisdom

We congratulate the Labor Convention on the soundness and good judgment and moderation and patriotism displayed in their proceedings. They demanded the removal of Burleson, and they had sufficient justification for making so drastic a demand.

All the working people are interested in public ownership, not merely from a theoretical point of view, but because they realize perfectly well how much more it means in wages and good treatment to the men to have public utilities in the hands of the Government than to have them in the hands of private speculators who wreck them and throw them into bankruptcy, and then claim that they cannot make enough money out of the utilities to pay decent wages to their employes.

The working people resented Mr. Burleson's wicked attempt to discredit and destroy public ownership. They also particularly resented his attitude toward labor.

The convention was also right in its attitude toward Bolshevism. Bolshevism is a product of privation, of woe and want. It is a reaction from despotism. There are no conditions in this country to create Bolshevism—and let us hope there never will be.

There are some inequalities of classes before the courts and the Government, but these matters can easily be remedied by the orderly methods of our system.

Finally, Bolshevism is, at best, class government; and our theory in America, the theory which we ought to try to carry out perfectly in practice, is that there shall be government by no class, but by the whole people.

At present the capitalistic class has too much power and the producing class too little. That, too, can be remedied by the orderly processes of government, and it must be remedied.

But to make a government entirely by the laboring class would be not only unjust and contrary to the spirit of our American institutions, but it would be distinctly disadvantageous to all classes in the long run, including the laboring class.

Individual independence, equality before the law and equal opportunity for all are the things which must be maintained in this country; and the present defects and imperfections in our Government would not be corrected (but aggravated) by a distinctly class government of any kind.

Another good act of the Labor Convention was to denounce the subserviency and tyranny of the courts—subserviency to the predatory interests and tyranny over the masses.

This denunciation was unfortunately justifiable. Many judges have long been the tools of the predatory interests; and particularly of late the country has seen shocking examples of judicial tyranny, exercised by unjust judges, in defiance of the Constitution of the land and the rights and liberties of private citizens.

We wish that the Labor Convention had gone farther on this right road.

We wish that it had endorsed and committed its membership to the support of the initiative and referendum.

Most of the ills which have befallen the nation during the past six years would have been prevented if the people had actually had a voice in their own Government, had actually been able to register their will and decide for themselves the tremendous questions that were decided for them in the secret councils of a handful of men.

We will have no real democracy, no real people's rule in our country until the people have the means, as well as the theoretical right, to make laws, repeal laws, elect officials and depose officials AT ANY TIME they see fit.

That is the true democratic form of government which gives popular sovereignty force and enables the masses to protect their rights against the cunning and sinister coercions, briberies and cajoleries the predatory class knows how to employ so effectively in seducing public servants from their duty.

The workers of the nation undoubtedly favor the initiative, referendum and recall method of popular government, and we can imagine no reason why the Labor Convention did not declare emphatically for these necessary safeguards of the people's rights unless it was that the leaders took it for granted that all the world knew how the workmen stood in this matter.

But, taken all in all, there is little with which to quarrel, and much, indeed, with which to concur in the proceedings and conclusions of the most important Labor Convention ever held in America.

Excellent Bill Which Ought to Be Made Into Law

The Caldwell bill is now in the hands of the House Committee on Military Affairs, and we hope it will soon be reported out favorably and passed.

This bill provides that all machine tools and scientific instruments now in the possession of the War Department and which are not being used for Government purposes shall be loaned by the Secretary of War to trade and technical schools and universities for educational use.

We think that this is an exceptionally good bill.

Machinery, tools and scientific apparatus of all kinds needed by the manual training and polytechnic schools are not only very high in price but are very hard to get.

The high cost of this equipment would be alone a matter of importance to the taxpayers, and when to the high cost is added the difficulty of being able to buy the equipment at all it is evident that the millions of dollars' worth of such equipment now owned by the Government and not being used by the Government should be placed at the disposal of the public schools and other recognized educational institutions of the country.

Unless the machinery and tools and scientific instruments which the Government has and no longer needs are used in this sensible way they will no doubt be sent to the auction block and disposed of for a mere fraction of their true value to speculators.

The economy and the good sense of the plan presented by Representative Caldwell are so indisputable that it requires no extended argument to convince sensible persons that the bill should be reported out favorably by the committee and passed as soon as possible.

By K. C. B.

DEAR K. C. B.
I THINK you're mean
TO BLOW that stuff
ABOUT THE wren
THAT RUNS about,
WHILE HIS wife sits home
ON THE little brown eggs
BECAUSE I'LL bet
THAT EVEN you
DO THE self same thing
AND THINK you're smart,
AND THAT no one knows,
BUT, ANYWAY,
NOW THE story's out
I'LL TELL you this,
THAT THE saucy wren
WE THOUGHT so nice
IS NOT the saint
THAT WE would believe,
AND I want to tell
ABOUT A trick of his,
THAT YOU may not know
BUT YOU'LL have to promise
YOU WILL never tell it
TO A living soul
AND IT goes like this
IN MY back yard
I HAVE a bath,
FOR LITTLE birds
WHERE THEY may come
AND WASH themselves.
AND ROBINS come,
AND CATBIRDS, too
AND STARLING things
AND IT is true,
THAT EVERY bird
ABOUT THE place
COMES TO the bath
MOST EVERY day.
BUT LISTEN here,
FOR FORTY years,
I'VE HAD that bath,
AND WATCHED the birds,
THAT COME to wash,
AND PICTURED them
BUT NEVER yet
HAVE I ever seen,
A WREN come there,
TO TAKE a wash,
SO NOW you see
WHAT A bum he is,
AND WE both know,
THAT THE little scamp,
IF HE will not wash,
FOR FORTY years,
WOULD BE just the boy,
TO LEAVE his wife,
ON THE little brown eggs,
WHILE HE went out
AND RAN around,
WITH OTHER wrens.

I THANK you.

A. R. COLEMAN.

Letters to the Editor

Lane's Stand on Suffrage

Editor Boston American:

I find in this morning's press that the Federal Relations Committee of the Massachusetts Legislature is stated to have voted on the Woman Suffrage amendment, nine in favor of immediate ratification, one against, and I myself as refusing to vote either way.

This is one of the half truths which convey a false impression and implication that I was "dodging" which those who do not know me might credit. The other half of the truth is that I moved in committee to refer the whole matter for instructions to a popular vote of both men and women at the next election. The Senate chairman refused to entertain the motion or allow it to be made in any form because, according to his own statement, the members of the committee didn't propose to allow themselves to be put on record as against such popular reference. It was only when he further refused to allow me individually to be recorded as in favor of such a reference, that, as the only method left to me of protest against such unfair and high-handed proceedings, I refused to vote on the single question of ratification.

For years I have been an advocate of the principle that simple fundamental issues such as suffrage, prohibition, capital punishment, and others in which the people are interested should be referred to them for decision, and so expressed myself on the stump last Fall.

Since that time the people of Massachusetts have for the first time made the principle of the initiative and referendum a part of the constitution of this State, and at the same election the further principle of compulsory voting.

Under these conditions as I understand my duty as a representative of the whole district and not any particular section or faction, in view of the vote against woman suffrage of about 3-2 in 1915, I have no right by my vote to force upon women what is not only a privilege but a responsibility, until I have good ground for believing that the sentiment of the majority has changed in favor of accepting such a responsibility.

Most of the women I meet are opposed to suffrage. The proponents present a large array of signatures of those claimed to be in favor. Neither evidence seems to be conclusive enough to warrant my voting for ratification until there has been another referendum to the people of the district.

If the majority of the women are in favor of such ratification I shall regard their vote as a mandate which it will give me pleasure to carry out.

Long ago we shook off, except in form, the constitutional provision by which our presidents are elected by the free choice of the electoral college. More recently we "scrapped" the job of electing United States Senators by the Legislatures and put that in the hands of the people. It is high time that such important matters as changes in our national constitution should also be adjudicated by the same Court of Last Resort.

BENJAMIN C. LANE.
Representative 22nd Suffolk District.

ARE YOU WORKING TOWARD MORE MONEY OR JUST HOPING FOR IT?

Why settle down and say you have gone as far as you can from a money-earning standpoint?

Why feel it impossible to do anything more lucrative than you are doing?

With such an idea in your head, of course you won't go any further. You are in a rut, and you have no particular plans for the future.

A fair salary, a happy home, congenial friends, and you do not look any further into the future.

Don't you know that you will have to double and redouble your efforts before you can expect an increase in your income?

If you think your present easy going, lack-of-method habit of living is going to get you financial returns greater than you have today you are mistaken. Put your shoulder to the wheel and push.

CLOSER STUDY OF THE STARS AS A HUMAN INCENTIVE

By Garrett P. Serviss

HERE is part of a letter from Houston, Texas, that ought to be read by a great many fathers and mothers of little girls and boys:

After a theatre party, my baby girl (aged seven), who has been studying astronomy since my return from sea in December, was very enthusiastic over the magnificence of the stars that night, and because of my willingness to answer her many questions and point out the beauties of the universe to her eager eyes, my acquaintances seemed to think it too small a matter to engage their attention and headed for a dance hall where they could find their pleasure.

"Many an hour I have spent with my little girl explaining the constellations and the stars in each, their colors and peculiarities, how to locate and identify them, the planets and their wandering habits, the moon and its phases, the sun and its influence on our seasons, use of the stars and planets in everyday life, etc. Knowing every first magnitude star by its constellation and common name (and many other second and lesser magnitudes) she can point them out with certainty and rapidity, and as the years go on she is getting deeper into the study and her interest is increasing.

"To say that I read her each of your articles is superfluous and each is kept in her reference files. Of course, being a navigator and using the stars and planets constantly at sea, I may be prejudiced, but I cannot see why more astronomy is not taught our children, for no science will be of more real benefit in their development than the study of God's great creations.

Glowing Arcturus

"Once every twenty-four hours the glowing Arcturus rides the sky over Arabia, the ancestral land of the Bedouin poet-philosopher, Job: "Canst thou call forth Arcturus and his sons?" And sixteen hours later its eye of golden fire looks down from the meridian upon the western shore of the Atlantic. Arcturus is to our sun as a harbor beacon to a fisherman's lamp, but can you find a person among your acquaintance who knows it?

"If I were a millionaire, I vow that I would endow a free public school of astronomy. I would have nothing taught in it but astronomy. It should stand as a rebuke to the false educational system, everywhere in the saddle now, which makes of its students mere slaves of the earth, which teaches them nothing seriously that is not calculated to chain them tighter to the triumphal car of the money-bags, while it imbues them ever deeper with the false notion that this little earth and its affairs are the only things of real importance. Nothing exposes that vanity so quickly as astronomy."

Surprising Indifference

This letter was called forth by an article on the lack of popular school instruction in the elements of astronomy as a cause of the general indifference of even educated people to the geography of the heavens, and the plainly visible phenomena of the solar system.

The writer of the letter properly remarks that the greatest value of a knowledge of astronomy consists in its broadening and uplifting effect upon the mind. It exalts the imagination, and in proportion as it belittles the earth, to which man's physical achievements are confined, it expands his intellectual empire.

Relatively few would care to calculate eclipses. Among astronomers themselves such work is done only by specialists. Without bothering with anything so mathematical as that (though the mathematics of it are simple enough), every student in the middle and higher grades of a public school could, at least, be introduced to a knowledge of the nature and the movements of the sun, the planets, the moon, the comets, the meteors and meteorites, and could be made as familiar with the constellations that diversify the dome overhead as with the continents and seas that form the features of the globe under foot.

Today

Wreath for George
You Missed a Birthday
Fear Kills Many

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1919.)

It was a lively quarter of an hour while the German fighting fleet was sinking in the English harbor. Lieutenant Nuttall testified that when the ships began to settle in the water he ordered German sailors to go back and close the seacocks with rifles leveled at them. Four or five turned back, whereupon the German officers shot three of them dead. He then opened fire on the officers, and several of them dropped." Before each ship sank, the German eagle was hauled to the masthead. It is said the German admiral in charge will be shot. There would be a dramatic execution. But he probably won't be shot. The English are too wise to manufacture enemy heroes.

Mr. Carson, the North of Ireland gentleman, who thinks the South of Ireland ought not to be free, denounces the Senate for expressing sympathy with the Irish republic. He calls it "American support of England's enemies." It isn't exactly that. It is simply the United States' sympathy, rather feebly, with a weak country that is trying to get away from British control exactly as this country did a hundred and fifty years ago. A good many people have forgotten it, but it is a historical fact that England once ruled here. We didn't like it, and we fought to end it. How can we refuse sympathy to Ireland trying the same thing now?

De Valera is here, as President of the Irish republic. In these days of big things some people consider Ireland a small country to set up for herself, and against England.

But, the population of Ireland today is larger than was the population of the United States when George Washington set up as manager in 1776.

At the grave of Washington among wreaths slowly withering, is one quite interesting. On it is written "From Venustiano to George."

You know George, first in war, etc., but do you know Venustiano, who sends the wreath by his own? He is Venustiano Carranza, President of the Mexican republic. Mexico has had one hundred Presidents in one hundred years. We haven't had so many.

There would be a less humorous touch about the wording, "Venustiano to George," if there were fewer bodies of Americans lying on Mexican soil without any wreaths or even any graves. If "George" could come back, he'd say to Venustiano, "Stop shooting my fellow citizens first, please, and send me wreaths afterwards."

If England should become mandatory for Mexico, as is suggested, free and easy Mexican shooting would die down. For England thoroughly understands the art and the necessity of shooting back. Ask the Egyptians or the Afghans.

A few days ago slipped the one-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Elias Howe. You heard nothing about it probably. If it had been the birthday of a famous fighter, a good writer, a celebrated actor, you would have heard about it.

Howe invented the sewing machine, freeing millions of women all over the world from the slavery of the needle, supplying the machine that clothes the human race.

If a fighter has one monument, Howe should have a thousand.

The other day they put a man in jail for a satisfactory term because he, for the second time, killed somebody with his automobile. Another man is arrested, charged with homicide. He did not know how to drive, but his partner, driving the car, let him take the wheel for a little while to amuse him. He drove on a sidewalk, killed a man and nearly killed the wife.

The man imprisoned was drunk. He ought to have had imprisonment for life. Many men that will risk lives of others would be more careful if an accident meant prison for them.

The Attorney-General's department asks for $500,000 to be used hunting anarchists. Offer $100,000 and immunity for information and see what will happen.

The negroes were brought from Africa when white workers were scarce. Naturally they wanted to continue working. But white workers don't want it, and are burning and looting negro houses. In the United States white labor has voted to take negro workers into the unions. A wise decision. With immigration stopped the hunt will be for workers, not for jobs, at least for some time.
